THE ARTEMISIA FOR 1928

A COMPLETE REVIEW
OF THE
COLLEGE YEAR

Published annually by the Associated Students of the University of Nevada at Reno

FOREWORD

A COLLEGE World is self - contained and unlike any other period of life. To record the events of a scholastic year is the mission of a college annual, the unification of such an annual generally being accomplished by following a theme or consistent type of embellishment. The story of the growth of the West—of which Nevada is an integral part—is as colorful as history reveals. Strong in the realization of this, the staff of the 1928 Artemisia has chosen the theme Western Achievement as a background and upon it has striven to reproduce a complete and vivid record of the college year that will serve as an accurate reference for the present, and a medium by which college days may be re-lived when we have passed from that ideal world and time has taken its toll.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA was founded at Elko in 1874 and moved to Reno in 1886. Since the erection of the first building at Reno, the growth of the institution has been consistent and rapid. ¶Over one-half of the present Campus structures are visible from the Tram and lie mirrored in Manzanita Lake—an artificial body of water sustained the year around. ¶The long building at the extreme left of the panorama sweep is Manzanita Hall, the women's old dormitory; and directly to the rear and merging into it is the dining hall. Farther to the right and partially screened by the low willow tree is Artemisia Hall, the women's new dormitory; while just to the left of the center at the head of the lake is Lincoln Hall, the men's dormitory. To the right of the fold and barely visible, are the Hospital and Education Buildings. Nearest the shore of the lake and in full view is the Agriculture Building, which hides part of the white sandstone Chemistry Building. Dwarfed by surrounding structures, a corner of the old Library is visible between the Chemistry Building and the Alice McManus Clark Memorial Library, the long structure extending nearly to the right extremity of the view.

EAGLE

Eagle, with wings deftly bent by blue skies,
Survey the cloud-captioned dome, rise and meet
Mankind's invasion. Scream, compose new cries
For answers, not echoes, and find them sweet.

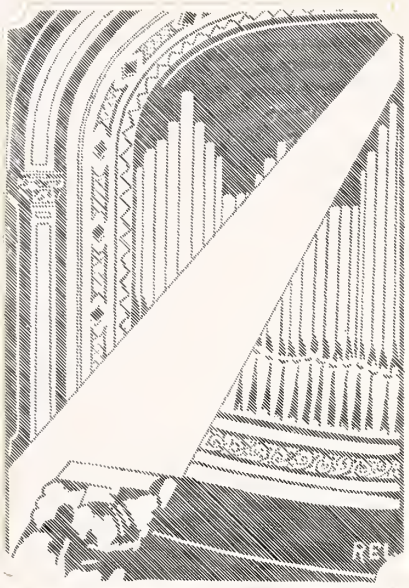

Eagle, fold your wings and fall when you tire
Of curving out the heavens. Let the wars
Ethereal be won by man's desire;
Let him fly up to darkness, and to stars!

THE SPIRIT OF THE CAMPUS

"For never the work of life is done
By the man with the selfish dream;
For the battle is lost or the battle is won
By the spirit of the team."

By the spirit of the campus is our battle to be won.

Friendly — democratic — cooperative!

When each student is a friend to each of many others and widens the circle of friends as the years go—

When each student chooses campus mates for their straight-away strengths of manliness and womanliness and grows steadily more worthy of friendship through increasing directness and trueness and steadfastness of spirit, untainted by snobbery, unshackled by deceit, unsullied by dishonor—

When each student is of the campus and for the campus, intelligently and devotedly ready, as strength and skill and time may be given, to labor with others towards the better campus, material and spiritual—

Then will a high, a holy, a wondrous campus spirit prevail.

The new student will instantly sense this spirit; the older student will partake of it; the senior will have it ingrained; the graduate, nurtured through four years of common endeavor with friends and with equals, will enter upon the long life game, ready always, in friendly and in level spirit, to strive with others towards the greater goals of America and of mankind.

WALTER E. CLARK.

BOARD OF REGENTS

WALTER E. PRATT
Chairman

THE control of the University is vested by law in the Board of Regents, which consists of five members elected by the people, the tenure of office of each regent being ten years. Following the sudden death of Mrs. Sophie Williams in July 1927, Governor Fred B. Balzar appointed Mr. George Wingfield, prominent Nevada banker and capitalist, to serve the remainder of the unexpired term.

The academic development of the University of Nevada has been rapid. In 1887 the enrollment totaled 50 students and the faculty consisted of two professors. In 1927, just 40 years later, there were 928 students and 88 professors. Of these 88 faculty members, 17 have the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and 33 are in possession of master degrees.

The Association of American Universites, which is the nearest approach to an official rating body for such institutions, recognizes the University of Nevada on its list of approved colleges. Application for placement on the list was made in 1917, but it was not until December 1920 that the application was formally accepted. At that time Nevada was the one hundred and thirty-fourth name on the list.

OFFICE OF THE REGISTRAR

DEAN OF WOMEN

MARGARET E. MACK
Dean of Women

ARBITER of the many and tangled social affairs of the Campus—that is the office of the Dean of Women. The successful holder of the position must be possessed of infinite tact, good judgment, and a quiet but determined spirit.

That Dean Margaret E. Mack has all these qualities those who know her will testify. In conjunction with the various Campus organizations she has turned aside many an impending storm, and weathered a few which crept up unexpectedly.

The new woman student is always sure to find friendly help and counsel as to her place in the classrooms, in Campus activities, and in the residence halls from the office of the Dean of Women. It is a post that is not always a pleasant one, but that is nevertheless a constant challenge to the abilities of its holder. In the past year special efforts have been made by Dean Mack, in cooperation with the Associated Women Students, to make the Senior girls of the various high schools throughout the state acquainted with the opportunities offered by the University and to establish friendly relations between active and prospective students.

MANZANITA HALL, WOMEN'S DORMITORY

DEAN OF MEN

THE development of character should be the chief aim of all educational effort. There is so much wreckage in college life and the number of those who enter with high hopes and purposes and who finally arrive, is so small that there seems to be a real human problem here for solution.

RAYMOND H. LEACH
Dean of Men

A college and its processes should not be considered merely as a machine, for it is dealing with men—men with different native abilities and aptitudes—men from different social and economic home influences, each affected by its own environment.

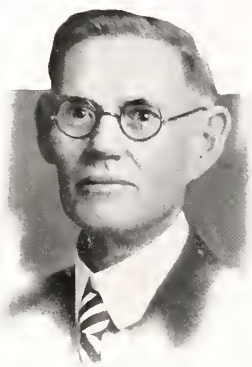

It is the privilege of the Dean of Men to come to know these different lads and to help them solve the various problems which present themselves during their college years. The greatest reward which can come to one in this office is the confidence and friendship of the men with whom he deals.

—Raymond Hotchkiss Leach.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCE

MAXWELL ADAMS
Vice-Pres. and Dean of the College of Arts and Science

ALONG with the general progress and development of the University during the past year, the College of Arts and Science has kept pace, as is evidenced by the following considerations:

In attendance it has continued to enroll about 70 per cent of the students in the entire University. This college has been considered the "Women's School," yet during the present semester there are only five more women than men registered. The entrance requirements have been raised to exclude special students not residents of Nevada, and the high school entrance offerings must be of higher grade than formerly. These changes, among others, bring the average quality of work to a higher level and help to maintain Nevada's place among the American colleges of first rank. Though our school is comparatively small and our needs not yet urgent, still we have planned for the future and have established a file of personnel cards on which is kept the college history of the student.

The College of Arts and Science has planned for next year a system whereby each entering Freshman will have a special faculty adviser appointed to help orient the new student in his new environment, and to help him avoid the machine-like methods of education which have been forced upon some of our large universities.

In the main, while recognizing that education may become too thin if spread over too many subjects, yet the college offerings are cultural and give little opportunity to the specialist who wishes to "learn more and more about less and less." Likewise, we cannot properly provide for those students who view a college course merely as a business asset and eagerly elect only those courses of study which seem to lead to a salaried position in the marts of trade. We do not plan to graduate super-Babbitts. On the other hand we do strive to graduate men with cultivated minds, spiritual perception, philosophic temper, and with fitness and capacity to function as citizens in a democracy. We cannot offer everything to everybody who comes. We can offer a definite kind of development to a coherent body of students fitted by nature and training to receive it. Plato's idea still holds. There is a certain kind of knowledge which, if you possess it, makes you not a stranger in regions strange to you.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

JOHN WILLIAM HALL
Dean

THE following facts indicate something of the growth of this work in the last seven years: Comparing the year of 1920-21 with the present year there has been an increase in the number of normal students from 25 to 77, or 208 per cent. The Seniors have increased from 17 to 62, or 329 per cent. The total enrollment of the University has increased from 726 to 1000—an increase of 38 per cent. In the first year nine per cent of all students were students in education. Now it is 21 per cent. Seven years ago six per cent of our students were men. At present 18 per cent are men. Sixty per cent of the students elected to Phi Kappa Phi in these seven years were teachers, indicating the quality of student in education and the quality of service the school is rendering the state. That the state is recognizing this is shown by the relative ease with which the appointment committee is able to place the increasing number of candidates. While this growth reflects the University growth as a whole, it is gratifying that the School of Education has not dropped behind.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

ROBERT STEWART
Dean

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE has graduated sixty-three men and thirty-seven women since its organization, and these graduates are playing an important part in the life of this and other states. The college has participated in a modest way in the growth of the University during the past few years, this year there being thirty-four men and thirty-four women in the college. The entering Freshman class is considerably larger this year than last. Last year there were three men and twelve women in the Freshman class, while this year there are ten men and fourteen women. This probably indicates a steady growth of the college in the future. Five men and one woman will be graduated in May, 1928. Special students from outside the state are now admitted to the college under certain conditions. Entrance requirements have been adjusted in a satisfactorily manner and the curriculum modernized so as to permit a wider choice of subjects by the student. This permits students who have very different objectives in mind to obtain the kind of work which will be of most value to them.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

FREDERICK H. SIBLEY
Dean

ONE YEAR AGO the Faculty of the College of Engineering adopted the policy of making the requirements for entrance to and graduation from the College of Engineering somewhat broader and lighter. This was done in view of the fact that enrollment in the college was failing to increase. The policy seems to be successful from the point of view of gain in numbers. The enrollment for the present year has increased about 15 per cent over 1927, with about 40 per cent increase in the Mackay School of Mines. It is possible that the curriculum of the college will be still further modified so as to allow more elective work in business, economics, and in the fundamental sciences.

Within the last two years the great engineering societies of the country have completed an extensive and detailed study of engineering education, and the upshot of this study has been the recommendation of broader training in college, particularly in the so-called humanities. The object in view is the fitting of engineers for positions of public service rather than that of mere technicians. In the past the tendency has been largely the other way.

MACKAY SCHOOL OF MINES

MR. CLARENCE H. MACKAY, patron of the Mackay School of Mines, donated $100,000 in 1926, for the purpose of enlarging the school building and to enable us to purchase badly needed up-to-date apparatus and equipment.

JOHN A. FULTON
Director

When school opened in August 1927, the construction work was finished, and we have almost 100 per cent more floor space than formerly. A very complete assortment of the latest types of apparatus and equipment has been added in all departments. The new instruments and equipment are all of first quality. Thanks to the latest gift of Mr. Mackay, the school has been brought up abreast of the times, and compares favorably with any of the other similar schools in the country, and surpasses many of them. Our graduates have gone out to all parts of the world, and have made oustanding successes. The demand for Mackay School of Mines graduates exceeds the supply by quite a margin. At the present time we could place twice as many men as are available.

ROADS

Horses hooves are made, and melted, in dust;
But the trail stays, and leads to new frontiers
That must be cut by fresher roads, that must
Be found and trod by modern pioneers.

Forward, then! Forget the weight of loads
Topping you! Forget the doubt that deters!
For roads are made to travel on, but roads
Cannot be made except by travelers.

—Edwin Duerr.

The Chain
Gangs

MACKAY DAY started out by being a little too cool and windy for comfort, and it looked as though the spring cleanup might lag; but undaunted "Nice" and his henchmen started in, and with the arrival of shovels, rakes, lumber, and other necessary supplies, things began to boom and didn't let up until the guard rail was laid around the track and the raking of the cinder path complete—just as the signal to "come and get it" was given by the Home Ec women, who prepare the annual mid-day banquet. In the afternoon, full of beans and ambition, the track warriors from each class gathered on the field, and when the smoke had cleared away the class of '29 had duplicated its victory of the previous season with another decisive win. Times were slow because of the wind, but a large crowd was on hand throughout the meet. The annual Mackay Day Dance in the gym in the evening topped off the celebration.

The Feed

We're in Nevada Now!

The Raid on the Harem

COFFIN AND KEYS "RUNNING" shades of Omar, Solomon, Cleopatra, and the Shiek of Araby! For an entire morning the campus was the scene of an Arabian war, battle, disagreement, or what have you. Weird notes from Turkish flutes, mingled with the exotic odor of Oriental perfumes, engulfed the class rooms, and tranquility was cast to the winds. Near noon time a powerful shiek pitched camp below the tram, and Salomes danced passionately to receive his nod of favor. The spectacle grew more absorbing, the last dance was in progress and the last veil was just to be unwound from the Favorite—a shot—wild yells—more shots, and from behind countless bushes gaudily clad Arabs advanced toward the encampment. A short but fierce struggle ensued, and the raiders disappeared with t he harem.

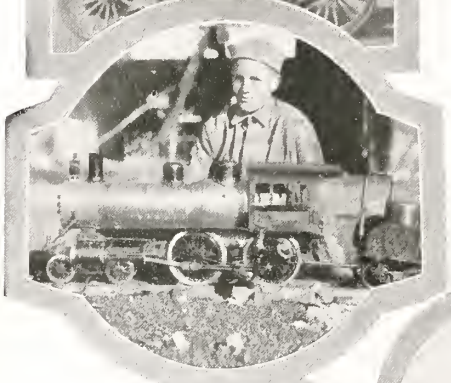

Lots of Fun for the Audience

HI THERE, WAITER! And the engineers had their innings again on March 19th. The last Campus celebration of the slide rule artists will go down in the annals as a memorable event, for this year Engineers' Day proper was consolidated with the Homecoming week-end; the banquet and engineer's dance, only, continuing to be observed in the spring. Under the capable direction of Pete Gignoux and with the cooperation of Prof. Charlie's Glee Club, the mathematically-inclined gentlemen emerged from their shells and administered a real treat to the rest of the Campus. Following the bangup parade down Virginia street in the morning, the laboratories were opened, running full blast, the physics department had a unique and original display, and the auditorium in the afternoon drew a full house.

Gentlemen of Leisure

AN' a picnic we will have! The call of the open still retains its grip, and superfluous spring energy can be squandered on the various group outings held near the end of the semester. Many favorite spots are to be found along the foothills south of Mount Rose, and the canyons echo and re-echo with husky shouts as cars of all decriptions and with varying loads arrive at their destinations. Emily Post loses complete control when the noon hour arrives, and "this one doesn't count," say the dieting co-eds when the plates are passed. Once every semester, just prior to the Sundowner's initiation, the "Knights of the Road" appear on the Campus, and handouts are never scorned by the "Buddies".

In the "Jungles"

The Procession Passing in Front of the Statue

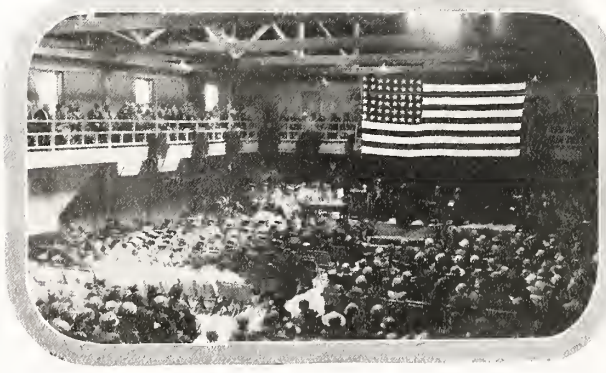

Entering the Gym

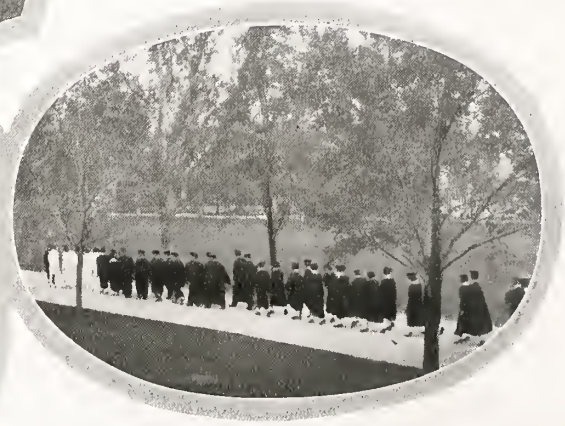

SENIOR WEEK and Commencement; events long viewed in the uncertain future, but now a reality. Formal class work is suspended during Senior Week, and among the annual events of these last days is the Senior Procession; a time when the class roams over the Campus in a group, viewing for the last time together the sights so familiar to them all. This year motion pictures were "shot" by Mr. Clarence Mackay's photographers, and Ray Henricksen is shown addressing his class mates in the shadow of the Mackay statue. The Baccalaureate and Commencement processions on successive days are colorful events. The candidates in cap and gown assemble on the south end of the Quad, and proceed in double file a round-about way to the exercises held in the Gym. The Baccalaureate address was delivered by the Reverend Lowther of Oakland, and the Commencement Address by the Reverend Brougher of the same city. The Class of '96 was the first to wear the cap and gown, and the familiar garb has graced the occasion ever since.

Hartung breaking half-mile record

HERE we have a little of everything to which a young man's fancy turns in the springtime except--ahem! At intervals throughout the page are some records being broken. At the bottom right-hand corner there appears to be something else besides a record in the process of being broken. There are also two scenes of the crowds milling about to receive the Artemisia. The czars of Mackay field register satisfaction — perhaps at the imposing array of N men, and perhaps at the line of would-be Nurmis.

The Frosh onslaught snaps the Pole

A little top-heavy

AFTER one or two preliminary skirmishes, in the vicinity of fraternity houses and on down - town streets, the Freshmen and Sophomores met in a rather tardy field day, on September 10, three weeks after school started. There were four events: The boxing matches, the tie-up, the jousting contest, and the pole rush. Pardon — there were five events. There were the Frosh women. This event alone was worth the price of admission. The whole affair was, of course, free. Three boxing matches were held, the Frosh winning the heavyweight match, and the Sophomores the light and middleweight matches. This gave '30 a lead of five points. It is conventional for the tie-up to go to the Sophomores, and the class of '30 is nothing if not conventional. After fifteen minutes of squirming about the middle of the field, they emerged victorious, with 16 tied to their opponents' 5. Likewise with the jousting contest, but here the Frosh had one consolation. More Frosh than Sophomores were unhorsed but the latter were more plentifully —and incidentally, more artistically— daubed with paint at the end of the match than were the former. Many a gallon of turpentine was used up before the Sophomore class was its natural color again. With the pole rush, the Frosh came into their own. After the Sophomores had painstakingly locked arms and massed themselves solidly about the foot of the pole, and had placed a rather nervous member of their class on top with instructions to kick all presumptious Frosh in the faces, '31 attached. The pole gave an imitation of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, the pole-sitter gave an imitaton of somebody doing a swan-dive, and the pole rush was over. And that was all there was to the day, except that part which concerned arnica and turpentine. The score was 40 to 30 in favor of the Sophomores.

NEVADA'S Eighth Annual Homecoming! The bonfire rally, the crowds, the hand-shaking, the exhibits, the big game, the dance — all in a varied array, contributed to the success of the big week-end of the fall semester. Pep talks at the bonfire rally were the key to the celebration the following two days. Classes were dismissed for Friday and Saturday, the parade Friday morning, under the direction of Archie Watson, engaging the attention of practically every organization on the Hill. No one seemed to dispute the title of "biggest yet" for the procession, and the Gamma Phi float was awarded first prize from the fraternity and sorority entries. In the afternoon the exhibits were thrown open, and with the engineers and aggies cooperating in the celebration for the first time, there was much to be seen and many places to go. The Alumni banquet—the real reunion for the grads—was held in the Golden Friday evening. Then the Wolves Frolic, under the general direction of Prof. Haseman; and with every seat in the Granada sold, and the largest number of acts and actors yet participating, the "big hand" received consistently throughout the evening, told its own story as to the caliber of the show. Saturday, following in rapid succession, was the cross-country race, which was won by the Kappa Lambda team, but with Les Clover in first place, and the tug-o'-war, in which the Frosh team took the wetting. Then the climax—Nevada vs. Santa Clara—a great game from start to finish, ending in a 7 to 7 tie.

NEVADA SPIRIT runs rampant all over this page. The first big rally was the Coach's Rally on September 15, at which everybody turned out and practiced up on yelling for the rest of the year. Some distinguished Nevada citizens dug up the Spirit of Nevada, which had so long lain buried, and brought it to life once more, with appropriate ceremonies and shouting. You can see them doing it just above and down in the left-hand corner. The huge bonfire rally, two nights before Home Coming Day, was, as usual, well attended, and everyone went home feeling that he had done his bit toward helping win the game. Besides these there were numerous excursions into the down-town streets of Reno, in order to let the citizenry know that we were around; and big send-offs at the station for the teams when they left for foreign fields. When Lindbergh visited Reno the Campus adjourned en masse and helped to swell the crowds which gathered at Idlewild Park to greet him.

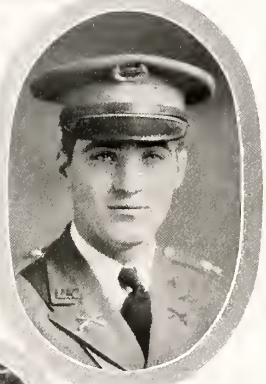

IT WAS a year of successful dances and social affairs. Of course, we know that every dance that was ever given was the best dance that was ever given, but this year's dances were even more so. Here are some scenes from three of them. At the top of the page is the Press Mardi Gras, held at Moana, February 4, at which the Publications Board was host to the workers on the different publications. At the right is the famous Pan-Hellenic dance, which took place in the Gym November 19, and at the bottom is the Sophomore Hop, the first formal of the year, held October 15. Marshall Guisti was Hop chairman, while Harney Archias and Milton Taylor performed like services for the Military Ball and Junior Prom.

DIRECTLY to the left is the committee to draw up a unified treasury system, hemmed in by some groups of embattled Frosh and Sophs, with one Frosh doing what would be a nose-dive if he were not engaged in holding on to that feature. Above is the Artemisia's photographer, John Babcock, about to set out on his hazardous picture-taking flight. At the bottom of the page are two people everyone will recognize, and some miners out mining.

THE STUDENT UNION

LAWRENCE NISWANDER
Union Chairman

THE enthusiastic backing given the Union Building plan by the entire student body is only a slight indication of the popularity of the project. It is easy to see that the Campus needs and wants such a building; that it would stimulate spirit and interest among the students.

The building will cost not more than one hundred thousand dollars, and will contain men's and women's club rooms, which will be convertible into an auditorium, student body and publication offices, trophy rooms, alumni headquarters, a memorial room, and other long-needed headquarters and rooms.

A petition asking for permission to attempt to finance such a building has been circulated and will be sent before the Board of Regents. If it passes the board, the members of the present Senior Class will pledge themselves to pay a sum of money, and all students registering next semester will pay a set sum into the Union fund, thus every class can then feel that it has an equal share in the new building. It may be years before the building is completed, but it is a dream that is worth having—something for which the student body may worthily strive.

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

ROBERT P. FARRAR
President

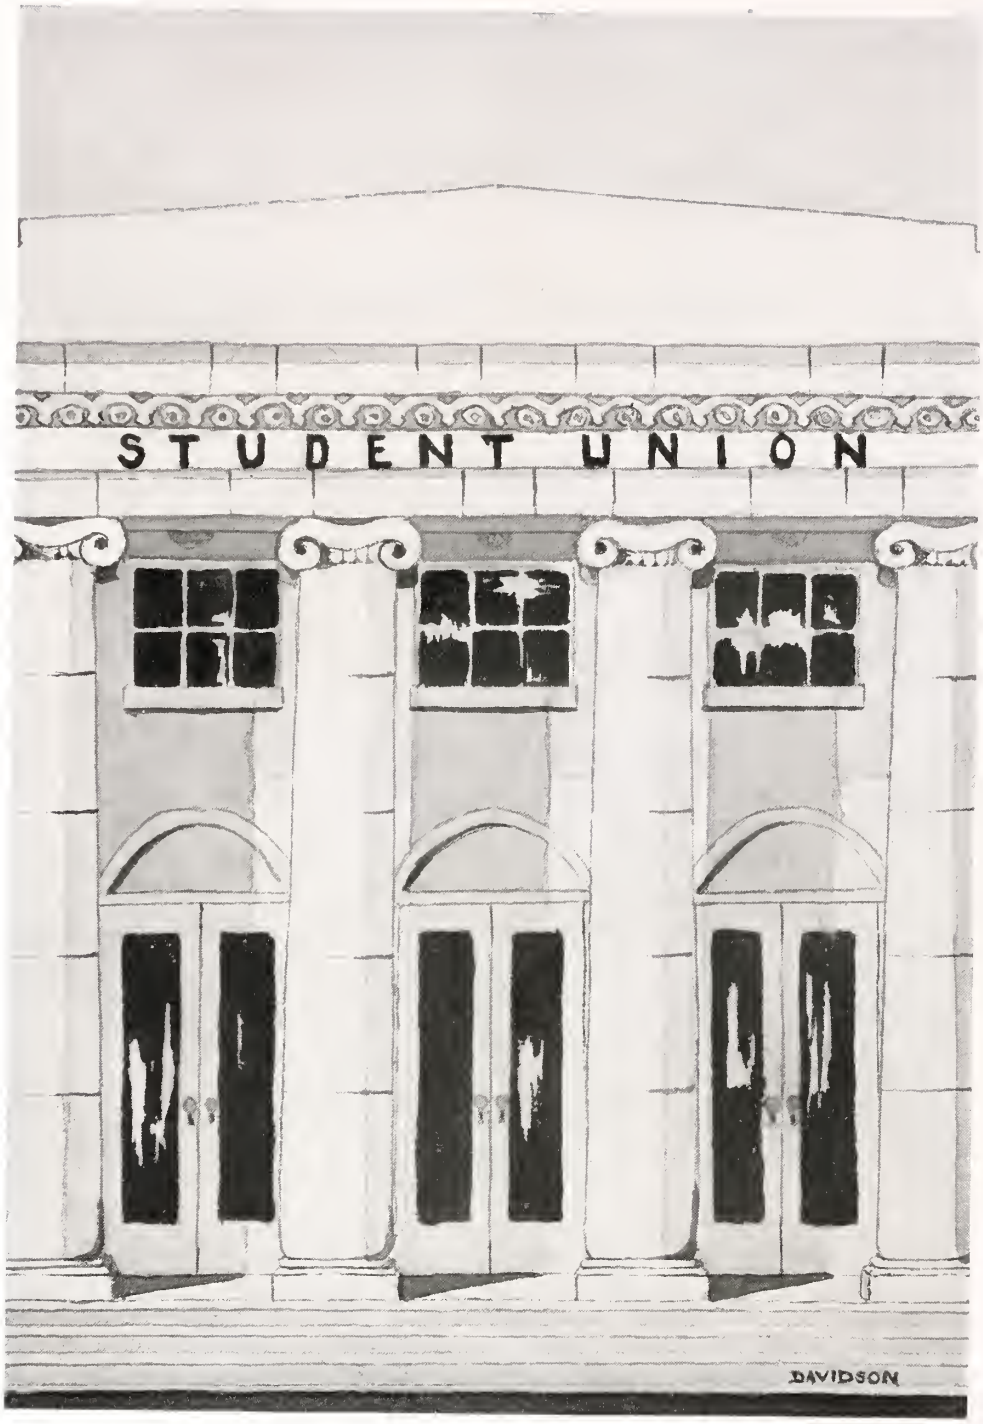

YOUNG COLLEGES in new states have difficulty in keeping the interest of their alumni. In order to overcome this weakness at Nevada, the members of the present student body are forming a Students' Union and have voted unanimously to finance the construction of a building to be erected on the Campus. It will be the headquarters and meeting place for all former Nevada students in Reno.

The financing plan, when approved by the Board of Regents, will call for a small assessment to be paid directly to the comptroller by each student upon registration each semester. By this method a definite income determinable in advance is guaranteed. In this plan a definite allotment is also made to our Alumni Association, giving that organization something it has never had in its history, an income for use in our Homecoming celebrations, and making further alumni dues unnecessary. Such a program initiated by the present student body, to be carried on by future generations of Nevada students, having for its object the welfare of the University and a closer contact with the alumni, reflects much credit on these younger people.

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT

KENNETH K. KNOPF
Battalion Major

THE poularity of advanced military training is increasing rapidly as is shown by the greater enrollment in these courses from year to year. More than five thousand graduates from colleges and universities accepted commissions as reserve officers at the close of the last school year, and the University of Nevada furnished its quota to the upbuilding of our national defense structure.

The military scholarship established by the General O. M. Mitchell Woman's Relief Corps was awarded to Elmer K. Lyon for the school year 1926-27.

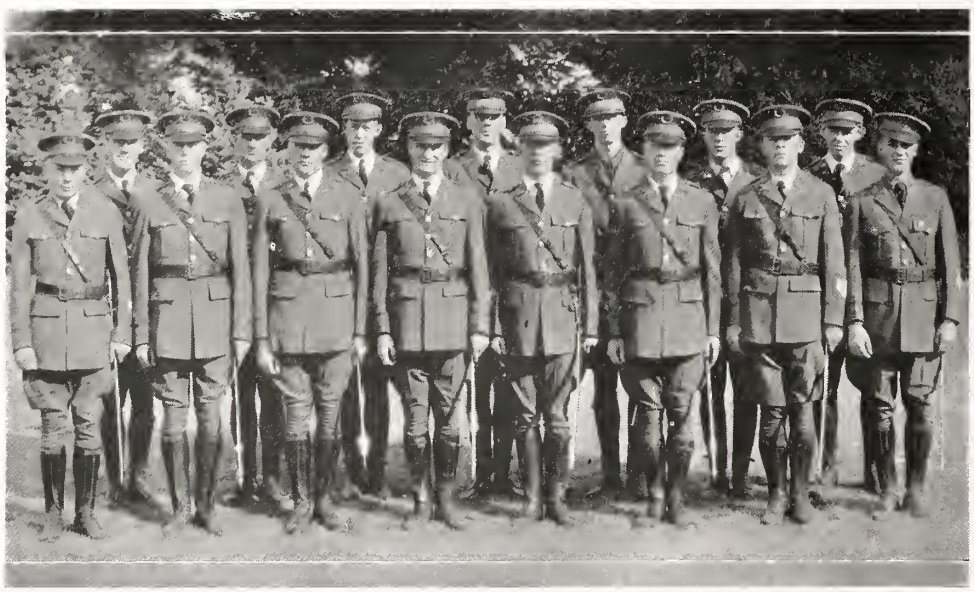

The Cadet Corps is organized for the present school year as an infantry batallion composed of three companies and a band. Acting Major—Kenneth K. Knopf

Battalion Staff—Rudolph A. Blum, Cyrus K. Dam, Thomas O. Towle

Company A: Commanding, Archie A. Watson; Platoon, Elbert B. Edwards; Leaders, William H. McNair and Leland M. Burge.

Company B: Commanding, Granville Leavitt; Platoon, Louis F. Lombardi; Leader, Michele DiRicco.

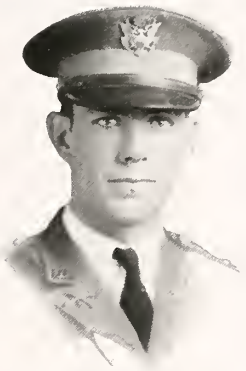

Company C: Commanding, Harney C. Archias; Platoon, Elmer K. Lyon; Leaders, Harold Bailey and William E. Copren.

R. O. T. C. RIFLE TEAM

TWO years ago there was issued to this institution by the government eleven rifles, specifically manufactured for gallery firing, and since that time the University of Nevada has made a very creditable record. The R.O.T.C. team fires in two large composite matches and in about twenty-five individual college matches. One of these composite matches is composed of all the universities maintaining R.O.T.C.s on the Pacific Coast, and the other, the Hearst matches, include all the universities maintaining R.O.T.C.s in the United States.

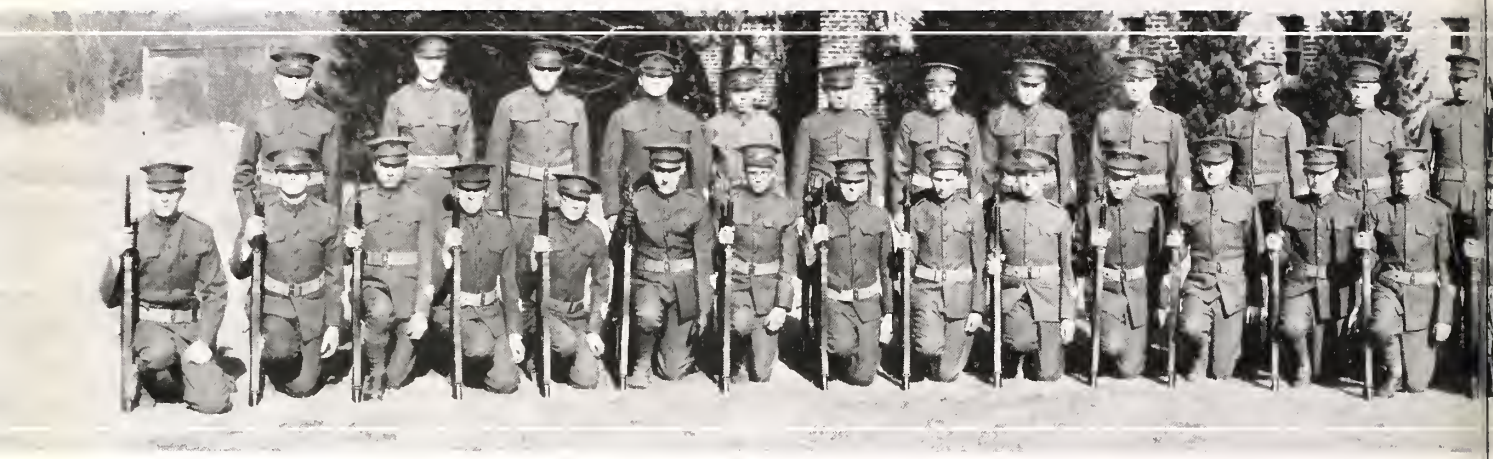

RUDOLPH BLUM
Battalion Adjutant

In the Pacific Coast matches in 1927, the University went from last place in 1926 to about center. This situation also holds true with respect to the Hearst matches. In 1927 the University of Nevada defeated among others such institutions as the University of Nebraska, Dennison University, Cornell, Culiver Military Academy, Princeton, University of Wisconsin, University of California, and the University of North Dakota. Of the twenty individual matches fired in 1927, only four were lost. This year with a team composed of nearly all veterans, even better results are expected.

CAMPUS PLAYERS

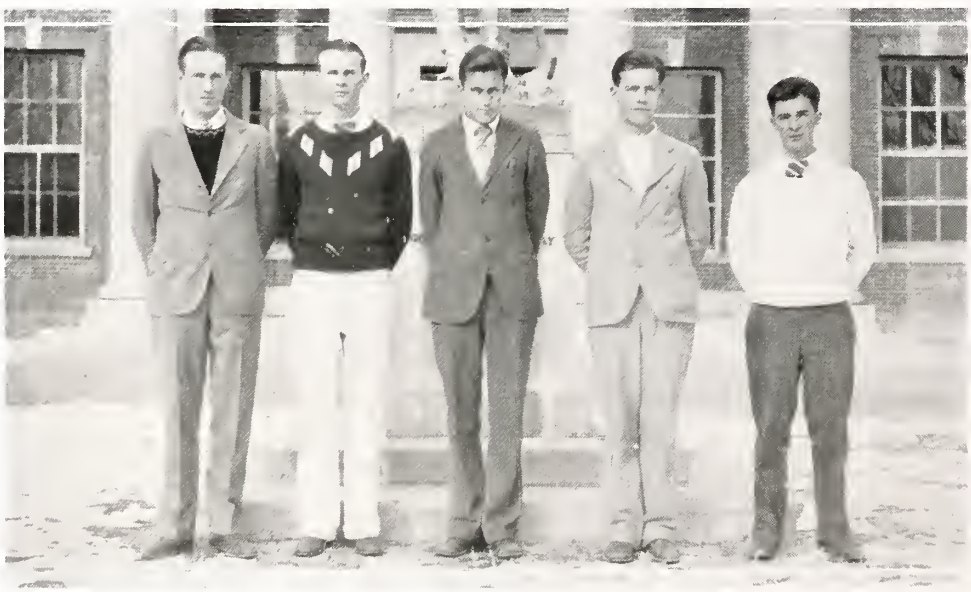

LOOKED AT from a dramatic point of view, the past year has been a little dandy. Mr. Edwin Duerr grabbed Campus Players by the scuff of the neck, shook it smartly a couple of times, and set it down again, as popular an organization as anybody could wish.

He got us out of the habit, so familiar to patrons of amateur performances, of sitting on the edges of our chairs, waiting for the agonizing silence which occurs when somebody forgets his lines. Campus Players no longer forget their lines, any more than do professional actors.

The organization emerges at the end of the year with four full-length plays — "Kempy," "The Enchanted Cottage," "The Bad Man," and "Icebound"—the Chester Mysteries cycle, a program of one and two-act comedies from the French, and another program of one-act comedies from the University of Nevada, to its credit.

It inaugurated three novelties, all of which it hopes to make annual affairs: The undergraduate play-writing contest, the high school one-act play and Shakespearean reading tournament, and the Wampas Ball, which will take place in April.

It was also able at last to purchase the curtain it has been wanting for lo! these many years, as well as a cyclorama and sundry other permanent equipment.

"Kempy," the first play of the year, was given at two performances in the Education Auditorium, as were all the other offerings except "The Bad Man". "Kempy" was a sweet little comedy, guaranteed to amuse, and proved very popular. Isabel Loring, Renee Duque, Hoyt Martin, and Vernon Cantlon showed just how the course of true love runs, and Betty Lippincott and Lenard Sledge were a pair of harassed parents.

"The Enchanted Cottage" was more serious, a delicate comedy with tragic implications. It told a simple story of two people, one a plain and homely spinster, the other a war-torn wreck of a man, who were transformed to beauty by their love for each other. The scene of the play is the "enchanted cottage" of the title, which the lovers believe has cast a spell over them, making them appear beautiful. Patricia Harding and Edwin Semenza acted the parts of the lovers with commendable restraint, and

Gwendolyn Pierson, Eva Adams, Katherine Mergen, Elmer Lyon and Jack Gregory gave fine performances.

"The Chester Mysteries," given just before the Christmas season, deserved better than it got in the way of popularity. Three medieval plays of the Nativity, which originated in Chester, England, in the fifteenth century, were presented in a style as nearly as possible identical with that in which they were first acted so many years ago. Impressive scenery and costumes added greatly to the effectiveness of the production, and the incidental music, provided by members of the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, was one of the brightest spots of the evening. Purely a series of atmospheric tableaux, the plays had little opportunity for outstanding characterization in the individual parts, but Julien Sourwine and George Vargas managed to make their roles of two shepherds stand out; and Berry McAnally was a lovely Madonna.

"The Bad Man," the big production of the year, was given at one performance early in February at the Granada Theatre, with trumpet-blowings and excitement appropriate to the occasion. It proved such a big success that it was again presented toward the end of the month, this time in the Auditorium. It was a comedy, the funniest of the year, having to do with bandits and their activities on the Mexican border line. Don Bernstein was a splendid bad man, suave and villainous to the last degree, but with a kind heart under his frightening exterior. Marian Cheney had little to do as leading lady but be beautiful, which she did nicely. Emory Branch was a romantic hero; Jack Gregory a cantankerous old man, and George Vargas a despicable villain.

"The most difficult play we are giving this year," was Mr. Duerr's opinion of Owen Davis' Pulitzer prize play, "Icebound." It was a play calling for perfect poise and restraint on the part of the actors, since the keynote of the personalities of the characters is found in the title—their hearts were all "icebound." Betty Sue Shaw and Granville Leavitt were excellent in the leading roles, and other important parts were carried by Fred Anderson, Gwendolyn Pierson, Margaret Beverly, and Betty Lippincott.

The program of French plays will include a two-act comedy, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," by Anatole France, and two medieval farces, "The Pie and the Tart" and "Two Blind Men and a Donkey," both by Mathurin Dondo. The other program of one-act plays will be made up of the two winners in Campus Players' play-writing contest—"Love is Like That" by Dan McKnight, and "Fraternity Pins" by Dan Senseney—an interlude, "Classroom" by Don Bell, and "Freshman! Freshman!" arranged by Edwin Duerr.

The Shepherds—"Chester Mysteries"

The impressiveness of "The Chester Mysteries" was enhanced by elaborate costumes, particularly those of the three Oriental Kings, and the colorful cathedral setting. Three Gothic windows glowed religiously in the reds and blues of the several acts, the sainted figures standing out in bold relief. They were the creations of Carol Smith and Edwin Semenza, and marked the beginnings of new stage art work on this Campus.

The characters of "Icebound" were created "hard and mean to live the hard, mean life they had to live."

One of the outstanding characterizations of the year was that of Jane Crosby in "Icebound," as interpreted by Betty Sue Shaw. All the drabness of that downtrodden woman's life, her meagre but intense love for the ne'er-do-well, Ben Jordan, her sacrifices and her moments of thin joy, and her final happiness were depicted with a restraint that was admirable for its intelligence. The character gave the Pulitzer Prize play its note of sincerity.

"The Enchanted Cottage" by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, demanded a light touch, a fairy-like quality of beauty, and a whimsicality that oftimes bordered on tears. That mood was greatly created by the delicate Pierrot and Pierrette interlude interpreted by Betty Sue Shaw and Jess Roy. Pathos and beauty mingled when the crippled Laura Pennington and Oliver Bashforth saw them dancing lightly in the moonlight of their dim room.

Altar boys added that churchlike solemnity to "The Chester Mysteries" which made them so effective.

There was something statuesque and unearthly to Berry McAnally's Mary in "The Chester Mysteries." Haloed in silver light, and speaking gently and generously to the poor shepherds and the foreign kings, she created moments that demanded music for adequate expression. And music there was. Old Christmas carols from "Gloria in Excelsis" to "Lo! How a Rose E'er Blooming" were effectively rendered by members of the Glee clubs.

WOLVES FROLIC

MILLIE AND PEGGY

WHAT with one thing and another, this year's Wolves' Frolic managed to be just about the best the Campus has ever seen. Somehow every act seemed to be part of a professional vaudeville show; the whole thing had a polish and smoothness seldom seen in amateur performances.

Presented on the traditional date, the night before the Home Coming Day football game, at the Granada Theatre, the Frolic was directed by Professor Charles Haseman, Edwin Duerr and Vernon Cantlon, and managed by the Blue Key Fraternity.

Besides the usual acts by the Glee Club, the Women's Physical Education Department, Campus Players and individuals, the Frolic featured fraternity and sorority specialties. There was just enough of the spirit of competition present because of this innovation, to provide a snappy and exciting program. It is always dangerous to try to select the hit of the evening, but perhaps it will be safe to say that the audience seemed to enjoy the Kappa Alpha Theta act"Rainbows", best of all. "Campus Scandals" with almost everybody in the University in the cast, and "Spanish Touches," the Sigma Phi Sigma act, were also well received. Campus Players and Phi Sigma Kappa each put on clever one-act skits.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

W. I. CUNNINGHAM
President

THE MEN'S GLEE CLUB has spent the year in the readjustment which must always follow a change in direction. At the beginning of the fall semester, Professor Theodore Post took over the guidance of the club's musical destinies.

As a consequence, perhaps, of this period of readjustment, fewer trips than usual were taken this year. A few weeks before Christmas the club went to Fallon to give a concert in the Rex Theatre. The journey was made in buses, and the men were royally entertained with a dinner, chief constituent of which was the celebrated Fallon turkey. After the concert there was a dance; and after the dance, the buses left again for Reno, landing the club home at the proverbial three o'clock in the morning. Three towns, Elko, Winnemucca and Lovelock were visited in the annual spring tour, which took place this year toward the end of March. After every concert there was a dance, with music furnished by the Glee Club Orchestra, so there was very little lacking in the way of entertainment.

As the Artemisia goes to press, future plans for the Glee Club consist of a three-day engagement at the Majestic Theatre, beginning on Easter Sunday, which will take the place of a formal local concert. After the Majestic engagement the club will journey to Tonopah to end its season—that is, of course, except for the Manzanita Lake Serenade, something without which no University year would be complete.

Last spring the club was honored by an opportunity to sing over Radio Station KPO at San Francisco, one of the largest stations on the Coast. So successful was the broadcast that the organization also received several invitations to sing at different functions in the Bay region, which it was unable to accept because of lack of time. Numerous congratulatory telegrams and letters were also received from listeners in California and Nevada.

DEBATING

FORENSIC activities continue to draw a relatively small amount of attention from the general student body, but in spite of this state of affairs, Nevada will have participated in six inter-collegiate debates when the 1927-28 season closes. Nevada's Freshman team, consisting of Betty Burritt and Julien Sourwine, was heard in the first debate of the season when it met a team representing the University of California Freshmen. The negative side of the proposition, "Resolved: That Jazz Has a Human Worth Which Outweighs Artistic Consideration," was supported by Nevada.

The second debate was held in Stockton when Nevada, represented by Emerson Wilson and Alan Bible, met the College of the Pacific and took the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the Democratic Ideal is a Mistaken Sentiment." At neither of the first semester debates was there a decision rendered, this departure from traditional practice being in line with the growing tendency to get away from the old-style formal methods of argument.

Of the four debates scheduled for the second semester, only one has been held at the time of the present writing. The University of Arizona sent a men's varsity team to Nevada during the second week in March. Representing Nevada were Emerson Wilson and Lenard Sledge, who argued against the proposition, "That American Investments in Foreign Countries Should be Protected Only by the Government of the Nation in Which the Investment is Made." It was Arizona's ninth debate on the question, but resulted in their first defeat, as judges gave Nevada the victory by a vote of two to one.

The three contests remaining on Nevada's schedule are with the University of Colorado, Oregon State College, and the University of Redlands—the last a women's varsity debate.

Members of the debate squad this year have been: Kara Lucas '29, Emily Richards '30, Betty Burritt '31, Emerson Wilson '28, Melville Hancock '30, Alan Bible '30, Lenard Sledge '30, Reno Vogliotti '30, Julian Sourwine '31, and Alger Jacobs '30 (alternate).

Other than inter-collegiate debates, the chief forensic attraction of the year was the second annual meeting of the Nevada High School Forensic League, March 22, 23, 24. More than a dozen high schools, representing all sections of the state, entered the tournament, which was sponsored by Clionia and directly supervised by Mark Menke '30, manager of high school forensics for the Debate Council.

U OF N SAGEBRUSH

FRED M. ANDERSON
Editor-in-Chief

ON OCTOBER 19, 1893, under the name of "The Nevada Student Record," the initial number of what now consitutes the University of Nevada Sagebrush appeared on the Campus. It was published as an eight-page semi-monthly pamphlet, and for the first two issues was in opposition to a ruling of the Board of Regents. Near the close of its first decade, the old title was abandoned and it was rechristened "The University of Nevada Sagebrush." During the thirty-five years of its existence it has evolved into a full sized, seven column weekly newspaper, never under six pages and often ten and twelve pages in size.

Its policy, though an attempt to state policies must of necessity render them cold and lifeless, has always embraced at least one thing, the attainment of a "bigger and better" University and all fair and reasonable methods for that attainment. Setting the news, not only local but of other institutions, before the students is of primary importance. Others are advertising the University, the bringing about of cooperation between faculty and students, and the offering of its resources to those wishing journalistic experience. Totaling the results, we find again our primary assumption, "the attainment of a bigger and better University."

U OF N PUBLICITY BUREAU

HOMER RAYCRAFT
Director

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"—at least with one modification, that is the slogan of the Publicity Bureau, which was established at the University two years ago, and has been going strong ever since.

There might be drawn a distinction between advertising and publicity, the latter being a more dignified form of the former, and this is the modification first referred to. The chief duty of the Publicity Bureau is to acquaint the public with Nevada athletics, which is accomplished by furnishing local and Coast newspapers with abundant and accurate material for stories. While many accounts are printed when such material is available, a sports editor would not take the trouble to secure the same by indirect means, and it is this breech that the Bureau was established to close. Other University activities and accomplishments are also heralded by the Bureau. Similar publicity agencies are established at many universities and amply financed by the student bodies, the gain usually outweighing the expenditures

THE PUBLICATIONS BOARD

THE PUBLICATIONS BOARD is the official governing body of all Nevada publications. It was organized in 1924 under the doubtful slogan of "Bigger and Better Cuts," with its chief aim the betterment of Nevada publications. Under the experienced direction of Ralph Gignoux, Business Manager of the 1927 Artemisia, the Board has successfully guided the publications through a year marked by changes in general and financial policies.

Editor-in-Chief

THE competition among annual staffs the country over is becoming keener with the passing of each school year, and as a result new staffs are faced with a real problem to successfully compete and at the same time maintain an editorial and financial balance.

This year the Artemisia staff has striven to produce as mechanically perfect a book as possible, and at the same time not sacrifice written or photographic copy. Many changes in makeup, layouts, color combinations, type, and paper stocks have been attempted, and their reception by those whom the book represents is, naturally, a doubtful factor.

The best printing, engraving, art work, and photography that the book could afford have been secured. The printing specifications call for a delivery of one thousand copies, and the book itself represents a gross turn over of approximately seventy-five hundred dollars.

Twenty-four volumes of the Artemisia rest upon a shelf in the Memorial Library, each, from a few to many respects, depicting a step forward in the evolution of a college annual. If, when Volume 25 takes its place alongside these twenty-four silent records of over three decades of Nevada progress and the forward note is still maintained, the Staff will feel that a confidence has not been entirely misplaced.

UNIFIED TREASURY

GENERAL unstable conditions of A. S. U. N. finances during the past few years, brought on partly by the increase in size of the student body and an expansion and broadening of Campus activities, resulted this year in an attempt to remedy the unsatisfactory situation. President Vernon Cantlon appointed a constitution committee, composed of Elmer Lyon, Chairman; Mae Bernasconi, Genevieve Spencer and Douglas Ford, to supervise the revision of the A. S. U. N. by-laws and constitution.

During the year a number of "sessions" were called, with representatives of all Campus organizations present, to draw up tentative plans for stabilizing and supervising student body finances and expenditures. Several plans were submitted by the committee before a plan was evolved, late in March, that met with the approval of all the delegates. It was submitted to the student body on April 4, for adoption. The Associated Students voted favorably on the changes, and as the Artemisia goes to press the constitution committee is engaged in revising the old constitution to agree with the newly adopted centralized treasury system.

Among the suggestions made was a proposal to put the three publications, Artemisia, Sagebrush and Desert Wolf, on a salary basis. This plan was favored by the Publications' Board, recommended to the committee, and subsequently adopted with the treasury system.

The new plan for publications is believed to be a big step toward their improvement, as each editor and business manager will receive a definite salary, other money to be spent on direct improvement of the book, newspaper, or magazine.

The plan will bring activities under the direct supervision of the Finance Control Committee, which, by a new ruling, will be increased in size by adding a representative from each of the organizations included in the centralized system. The new constitution will be formally adopted either late this spring or at the start of the fall semester.

ITALIC N

ONCE each semester the "college scribe" is allowed to come out of hibernation and, for a brief moment, to be before the eyes of the student body, basking in the limelight of popular approval. That moment comes with the awarding of the "Italic N", the service award of the University of Nevada Sagebrush. This award was initiated in 1921 by Leslie Bruce, at that time editor of the publication, and was voted unanimously by the student body as a fitting reward for meritorious service, for the burning of hours of midnight oil, hunched over a typewriter in a paper littered office that the "Brush" might come out on time.

The twenty-one wearers of the "Italic N" are:

Eva Adams '28	Sheila Parker '29	Ellen Harrington '29	Juanita Lowe '28

WOLF

Beware the howl that trembles silence here,
Carried from desert dune to snowlit peak:
This is the Wolf's domain. Those who appear
Will need wily strength unknown to the weak.

Mist of the soft moon will glitter the sand
And the sagebrush, and on the parapet
Of mountain ridge the Wolf and Pack will stand
Indelibled in silver silhouette.

SEASON'S REVIEW

SWEEPING through to a successful season, the powerful Nevada Varsity overwhelmed all opponents in their class and for the second consecutive year were crowned champions of the Far Western Conference.

Showing an amazing strength in the track events, and only slightly weaker in the field, Nevada defeated the California Aggies 88 to 34, Fresno State Teachers 76 to 55, and successfully defended their title of Conference Champions by rolling up a total of 69 points to their nearest competitor's forty-five.

Getting away from the smaller colleges and into faster competition, Nevada sent a two-mile relay team and Ken Robison to participate in the Raisin Day Carnival at Fresno. Here the Wolves ran into varsities from most of the Coast colleges. Later in the year, Robison, in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, and Captain Clover, in the mile, were sent to San Francisco to compete in the P. A. A. meet, and the showing made by this two-man team is unprecedented in Nevada track history.

Finishing last year's track season undefeated in scheduled meets, Nevada has the record of suffering only two setbacks in the last three years and both of these were at the hands of the strong Olympic Club of San Francisco.

Too much praise for the past season cannot be given to Coach J. E. Martie and Captain Les Clover, who developed a remarkable squad and guided its destinies throughout the season.

SEASON'S REVIEW

Interclass Meet

The opening meet of last year's track season was held as the big windup to Mackay Day. The Sophomore class of '29 again demonstrated its superiority by winning the meet with 42 points to its credit. The Seniors were second with 31 points, the Juniors third with 25, while the Freshmen trailed with 23.

Robison, the Soph flash, again won both the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, and showed that Nevada need have no fear of these two events during the conference season. Captain Clover won his event, the mile, without being pressed. Tommy Towle loped to an easy victory in the low hurdles, while the high barriers were not run due to the wind.

There were no outstanding times made in the meet, although several exceptionally good prospects among the new men were revealed.

Inter-Fraternity Meet

The intra-mural meet, the second of the year, was again won by the strong Alpha Tau Omega team with 54 points, while their nearest competitors, the Sigma Nus, trailed with 37 points. The remainder of the points were evenly divided between the other fraternity teams.

One of the sensations of the meet came when Robison, Sigma Nu sprint ace, entered the 440-yard dash and won by setting a gruelling pace, which he maintained around the oval, with Raycraft, A.T.O., taking second, and Ligon, S.A.E., third. It was the prettiest race of the day, all three runners finishing nearly together.

Towle, A.T.O. hurdler, again won the low sticks, while the high barriers were called off for the second time because of the wind. In the first stages the meet was close and exciting but the A.T.O.s gradually showed their strength and walked away from the other teams in the closing events.

Davis Meet

In their first meet with a conference team the Nevada Varsity, led by Captain Clover, defeated the Davis Aggies at Davis by a score of 88 to 33. Two Nevada men shattered conference records in the meet, but due to a high wind, neither was allowed.

The first record to be surpassed came when Towle ran a beautiful race in the low hurdles to win in the fast time of 25.2 seconds. Ross Crew lowered the other record when he climbed to a height of 11 feet 8 inches to clear the bar in the pole vault. Robison again won the 100 and 220-yard dashes, with Kellogg, his team mate, finishing a close second in both dashes. Miller took third place in the hundred, giving Nevada a clean sweep in this event. Towle came through for first place in the low hurdles, with Leavitt taking the third place point. In the mile, Clover ran another good race to win, with Worden in second place. The 880-yard dash was a clean sweep for Nevada, with Hartung, Clover and Worden finishing in the order named. Crew won the pole vault with Leavitt of Nevada taking second, while Captain Clover went out of his field to win the shot put from Siebert, who placed second.

Watson, Jim Bailey and Siebert tied for second in the high jump, and Kline won the broad jump, with Kellogg taking second place, making the third second marker of the day for Kellogg. The last event of the meet, the mile relay, was won by the strong Nevada team, composed of Raycraft, Hartung, Bailey, and Robison. A severe blow was received by the Nevada team in this meet when Ray Ede, diminutive holder of the Far Western Conference and Nevada 2-mile records, pulled a tendon which kept him out for the remainder of the season.

Fresno Meet

The second dual meet of the season was held in Reno against the strong Fresno State Teachers College team, and Nevada annexed another victory by the score of 76 to 55. While the score was closer than in the previous meet, Nevada was never in danger and led all the way.

There were two outstanding events. The first came when Hartung, Nevada's star half-miler, ran a beautiful race to lower the record in the fast time of 2 minutes, one-tenth seconds. The other event which caused a surprise was the double defeat suffered by Nevada's star hurdler, Tommy Towle, who ran second to Kaster of Fresno in both hurdle events. Kaster was the high point man of the meet by winning four first places for a total of 20 points

Captain Clover won the mile in the fast time of 4 minutes, 40.8 seconds. The remaining points were closely contested for, with Nevada getting the majority.

Fresno Relay Carnival

At the Raisin Day Relay Carnival, held in Fresno, Nevada sent a 2-mile relay team composed of Raycraft, Hartung, Jim Bailey, and Captain Clover. These men ran a strong race to finish third in their event against some of the strongest relay teams on the Pacific Coast. Robison in the 100-yard dash, lost a heart breaking race to Schulz of California Tech., but only after leading most of the way. This year marked Nevada's first invasion of the famous California Relays.

Conference Meet

The second annual Far-Western Conference Track and Field Meet was held in Reno on the last day of the school year, being sprinkled with many close events and hotly contested all of the way. Nevada again demonstrated its class by piling up a total of 69 points. College of the Pacific finished second with 45 points, and was closely followed by Fresno State with 44 points, while the California Aggies trailed the field with 12 points.

Robison started out the Nevada parade with a swift win in the hundred. In the next race, the high hurdles, Towle, off to a fast start, took partial revenge on Kaster of Fresno by defeating him, with Brockbank of Nevada taking the fourth place point.

In the javelin throw, Jim Bailey whipped the spear to a first place with a toss of 157 feet 9 inches, while Siebert of Nevada took third.

In the mile run Captain Clover came through with a decisive victory, while his running mate, Harold Bailey, finished in third place. In the pole vault, Crew and Leavitt tied for second place, losing to Burr of Fresno, who established a new record for the event. In the 440, Ray-craft, Nevada's ace, had to be content with a third, being nosed out by two strong Pacific runners. Watson of Nevada, Brown of the California Aggies, and Kaster of Fresno tied for first place in the high jump with the bar at a new conference record height. Watson showed good form after being out most of the season with a serious leg injury. Captain Clover pulled a surprise by coming back and winning the two-mile race, with Lohse, the sensational Nevada Frosh, taking second. In the 220-yard low hurdles, Towle was forced into second place by Kaster, while Hunting came through for the fourth place point.

Robison had another easy victory in the 220, but the rest of the Nevada entries were shut out. Hartung, running true to form, easily won the half-mile, with Worden in second place. In the broad jump, Hunting and Kline of Nevada took third and fourth, respectively, with Siebert heaving the discus for a third in his favorite event.

The new Nevada relay combination, composed of Raycraft, Ligon, Jim Bailey and Kellogg, pulled a surprise and ran a great race to win this event from the powerful Pacific team, which was considered superior to the Wolf quartet, in the fast time of 3 minutes 32.8 seconds.

This meet won for Nevada her second Far Western Conference championship, but did not close the 1927 season.

P. A. A. Meet

Later in the summer, but still representing the University of Nevada, Captain Clover and Ken Robison were sent to the P.A.A. meet held in San Francisco, this two-man team taking fourth place in competition with the best track squads on the Coast. The Nevada pair being bested by the Olympic Club, Stanford, and California.

Clover, conceded only an outside chance of placing in the mile, ran to a second place against the best milers on the Coast. Robison lost two close races in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, being defeated by such close margins as to cause disagreement among the judges.

Thus closed the most successful track season in Nevada history. Winning two dual meets, the Far Western Conference meet for the second time, making a good showing in the Raisin Day Carnival, and an excellent one in the P. A. A. Meet, Nevada has a track squad it might well be proud of—champion of the small Coast colleges, and always giving the larger ones a mighty interesting afternoon.

SEASON'S REVIEW

FROM THE STANDPOINT of games won and lost, the 1927 football season was not a successful one for the University of Nevada. The Wolf Pack started the season by taking a crushing defeat at the hands of the St. Ignatius eleven, a team which had never before succeeded in downing a Wolf varsity. Each succeeding week-end, from this game on, the Pack fought vainly to regain the prestige which pre-season critics had been wont to give it.

Nevada faced the opening of the 1927 schedule with a squad of able veterans and a few outstanding new aspirants. Two capable coaches and an enthusiastic school spirit indicated that the big Wolf eleven would earn a name for itself in Pacific Coast football circles. Then came the season itself and with it the tragic encounter with the Gray Fog.

Nothing can be more heartbreaking to a football team than to be defeated in the first game of a season that it hoped to make its best, particularly if the winner of that game be a team which was faced with confidence and every assurance of victory. That is the way Nevada entered the St. Ignatius game on Mackay Field September 24—with an abundance of confidence. The Wolves played poorly. Occasional flashes of form showed what the Silver and Blue aggregation was capable of doing, but which it did not seem capable of doing consistently. There can be no doubt about the fact that the edge was with Nevada in the first quarter, as it should have been during the entire game. The period ended 0 to 0 and with it, Nevada's scoring threats ceased. Near the end of the half the Gray Fog pushed over a score after a concentrated line plunging and passing attack. In the third period, the second score for the visitors came after a 30-yard run through the center of the Nevada line. The third Saint tally came in the last quarter and the end of the game found a surprised Wolf Pack on the short end of a 19 to 0 score. Bailey had kicked well and some of the new men looked good. Aside from that, the varsity had shown little.

On October 1st, the Wolves had overcome their disappointment and were determined to give the California Bears a real battle in the Berkeley Memorial Stadium. In the first quarter, the Wolves played on even terms with "Nibs" Price's great Blue and Gold machine. The period resolved itself into a kicking duel between Bailey and Barr, with little advantage seeming to be gained by either side. Nevada again took up the fight with determination in the second period, only to have a heartbreaking fumble result in a Bear touchdown. With the California score, the spirit of the Pack seemed to be broken, and a few minutes later, a long end run gave the opponents another touchdown. The half ended with the Golden Bears leading 13 to 0. California came back strong and literally romped all over the Wolves. Injuries had compelled Coach Shaw to use several untried substitutes and with a powerful attack centered on off-tackle smashes and end-runs, the Bears swept through the Nevada defense for four touchdowns in the third period. In the final quarter, Nevada strengthened momentarily, but California added two more touchdowns to their total, bringing the final score to California 54, Nevada 0.

Then came Stanford. Too much credit cannot be given the Nevada eleven for the great game played against the Cardinals in Palo Alto on October 8. The Big Red team, conceded by many sports-writers to be the strongest aggregation in the West and tied with Southern California and Idaho for the Pacific Coast conference title, earned but one legitimate touchdown on straight football against Nevada. The other Stanford scores came in the form of breaks and resulted from an intercepted pass and a fumble. Nevada's lone two points came from what a disputed official's decision termed a safety. Nevada had backed the Cards up to their own ten-yard line. A bad pass from the Stanford center rolled over the goal line and a Nevada linesman and a Card back raced to recover it. The Wolf player fell on the ball and the big stadium scoreboard showed six points for Nevada. The referee ruled that a Stanford man had been interfered with, however and only a safety was allowed. At the final gun the champion Cardinals were on the long end of a 20 to 2 score.

In the second home game of the year, Nevada was again defeated, this time by Fresno State Teachers. The Wolves clearly outplayed and outclassed the Teachers but the scoreboard failed to indicate this at the end of the contest. Nevada piled up 16 first down to Fresno's six, and on straight football worked the ball over for a touchdown after the fiirst kick-off. On three other occasions during the course of the game the Silver and Blue gridders worked the ball up to the Fresno five-yard line but failed to score again. Fresno tallied seven points and tied the game in the second period by means of an intercepted pass, and then won the game on a beautiful drop-kick during the last five minutes of play. This was Fresno's first victory in football over a Nevada team.

The Nevada squad journeyed to San Francisco on October 22 to face "Slip" Madigan's highly touted St. Mary's Gaels. For thirty minutes, the entire first half, the Saints and Wolves battled on even terms, with neither team gaining enough of an advantage to get within scoring distance. Three minutes after the opening of the third quarter, the old familiar jinx overtook the Nevada backs and after that, there was a succession of Gaelic parades to Nevada scoring turf. Six touchdown in the last half gave the Saints a 38 to 0 win.

Santa Clara furnished the opposition for the big feature of Nevada's eighth annual Homecoming Day. The Wolves, beaten in every game that had been played so far, discouraged by injuries which had haunted the players in every contest, came out on Mackay Field October 29 determined to fight. A great throng greeted the players with the same loyal support Nevada's gridders invariably receive on Homecoming days. Once more there seemed to be an abundance of that intangible thing in which Nevada's men and women pride themselves, Nevada Spirit. Previous defeats were forgotten and students and spectators came with the idea of seeing the Nevada Wolf redeem itself. Coach "Buck" Shaw sent eleven men into the game. Eleven men, and eleven only, played throughout the entire contest and fought a great Santa Clara football machine to a 7 to 7 tie. The game was, without doubt, one of the greatest which has ever been witnessed on Mackay Field. Santa Clara scored first. This did not discourage the battle-mad Pack that was fighting for Nevada, and for "Buck" Shaw, who has gained the admiration and respect of every true Nevadan since his advent as head coach here three years ago. The white-helmeted Wolves worked smoothly for the first time and the defense functioned better than ever before. Even the attempted end runs of the reputed Bud

Cummings, Santa Clara captain, were smothered time after time by the Wolf linesmen. Captain Hansen, Larsen, Anderson, and Lawlor did particularly excellent work for the Nevada forwards. Big "Jim" Bailey, captain-elect of the 1928 team, won a warm place in the hearts of Nevada's supporters when he scored Nevada's lone touchdown after a long sixty-five yard run through a broken field on a fake kick play. It was Bailey, again, who converted the goal and made the needed one point to tie the game, while the Nevada rooters went wild.

With a new aspect on life in general, the Wolves went to Stockton on November 5 and defeated the powerful College of Pacific Tigers. The Pacific eleven scored on a long pass in the first two minutes of play. Their second score came after recovering a Nevada fumble, in the last two minutes of play. In the meantime, they seldom threatened the Nevada goal. Bailey and "Mike" Lawlor covered themselves with glory with many substantial gains and some nice exhibitions of open field running. Nevada led 19 to 13 as the game ended.

The Young Men's Intitute eleven from San Francisco, coached by "Jimmy" Bradshaw, star of former Nevada Wolf Packs, came to Reno Armistice Day. The Y. M. I. aggregation consisted of former college stars and came to Reno confident of victory. Jim Bailey again proved himself the star of the day by performing like Bradshaw himself and stole the show by scoring two touchdowns, one after a seventy-five yard run. Ingram and Underhill starred for the Institute. The game ended 13 to 7 in favor of the Wolves.

The final appearance of the 1927 Pack was made in far-away Spokane on November 19 when the Wolves faced the Gonzaga Bulldogs. The game was played on a veritable sea of mud. Nevada had taken a long, hard trip. They were used to a dry field and had no mud-cleats for their shoes. These facts spelled defeat for the Wolf squad, as Gonzaga was perfectly at home in the mud with their special-made shoes. Time after time Nevada's forward wall tore gaping holes in the Bulldog's line only to have a backfield man slip and fall without even being touched by an opponent. Most of Gonzaga's scoring came from running back punts and kick-offs. They ran with as firm a footing as though they were on a dry field and Nevada was unable to get about with any speed or skill at all. The final score read—Gonzaga 48, Nevada 6.

In this manner the Wolves lost the last game of the year and finished the season with a record of six defeats, two wins, and one tie. A poor record for Nevada in one respect, but a revelation to those who understand the situation. Nevada started the season with everything working against her. With dogged determination, however, Coach Shaw and the squad fought their way into the winning column. We are proud of our Wolf Pack, proud of their fight and nerve when luck was against them, and when most teams would have despaired. And we are confident that under the leadership of "Buck" Shaw and Captain Bailey, the new Wolf Pack will have a big year. Old faces and new will appear in the 1928 Pack and this year's slogan will again apply—"Watch the Wolves!"

THE 1928 OUTLOOK

L. T. "BUCK" SHAW
Head Football Coach

NEVADA is still suffering from one of the most disastrous football seasons in its history. The contributing causes of the 1927 defeats were of such a nature that they would have struck at any team's foundation. A few of these causes were, insufficient number of veterans; numerous injuries, especially among the veterans; and very little experienced new material.

Despite the many handicaps the Varsity has an outstanding accomplishment in its season's record. The game with Santa Clara on Home Coming Day was truly a spectacle. Too much credit cannot be given the men for playing to a standstill the team that later defeated the powerful Stanford eleven. It is very difficult to make a prediction for the coming season. About ten veterans will be lost to the team, and there were few new men who showed enough ability during spring practice to take their places. The loss of the old men will be keenly felt; but with the addition of a few experienced Freshmen, and the return of all eligible men this fall, Nevada will again be in a position to fight to the top.

GOOF FOOTBALL

THE GOOFS—from name to workouts they take a beating. Yet they are the means of making a winning Varsity, for it is they who test the strength of the Pack's plays and organization, and it is from the ranks of the Goofs that Varsity men emerge.

HARRY O'BOYLE
Assistant Football Coach

The 1927 season of the Varsity understudies was a perfect one — no defeats, but — no victories. During the entire season the Goofs had no games, unless their nightly struggles with the Varsity be called games. In spite of this discouraging fact, the Goofs appeared regularly for practice, perhaps buoyed up by the hope of sometime making the Varsity. That this hope was not futile was shown by the appearance of early-season Goofs on the final Pack roster. The Goofs were coached by "Chet" Scranton, to whom much praise is due. Doubly burdened though he is with the coaching of both the Goofs and the Frosh, he developed the Goofs into an efficient opposition for the Varsity and before the season was over, fitted a number of them into positions on that body.

FROSH FOOTBALL

"CHET" SCRANTON
Frosh Coach

PLAYING one of the hardest schedules ever attempted by a Freshman team, the 1931 eleven proved itself to be a hardy crew by bringing to its lair four victories as a result of five battles.

The Cubs defeated the Indians from Stewart in their first bid for football fame, and although afflicted with numerous tomahawk wounds, were able to chalk up another victory the following Saturday against Reno High School. The state prep champions played a good game, but the fighting spirit of the Freshmen was too much for them.

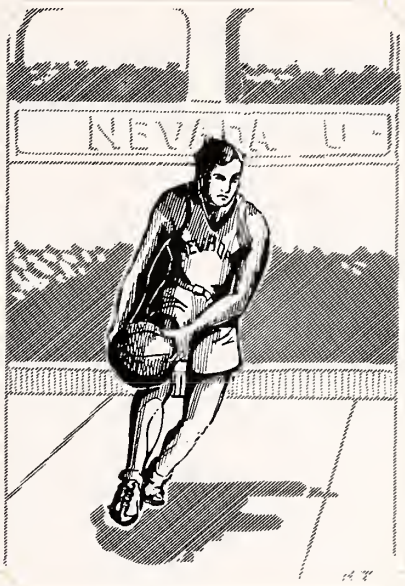

As an appetizer to the spectacular Home Coming Day game, the understudies of Coach Scranton again displayed their class by defeating Susanville High 14 to 12. The lone defeat suffered by the Freshmen was administered by the champion Junion College eleven from Sacramento by a score of 26 to 6.

Traveling to Susanville on Armistice Day to play their final game of the season, the '31 men defeated the Lumberjacks 30 to 0.

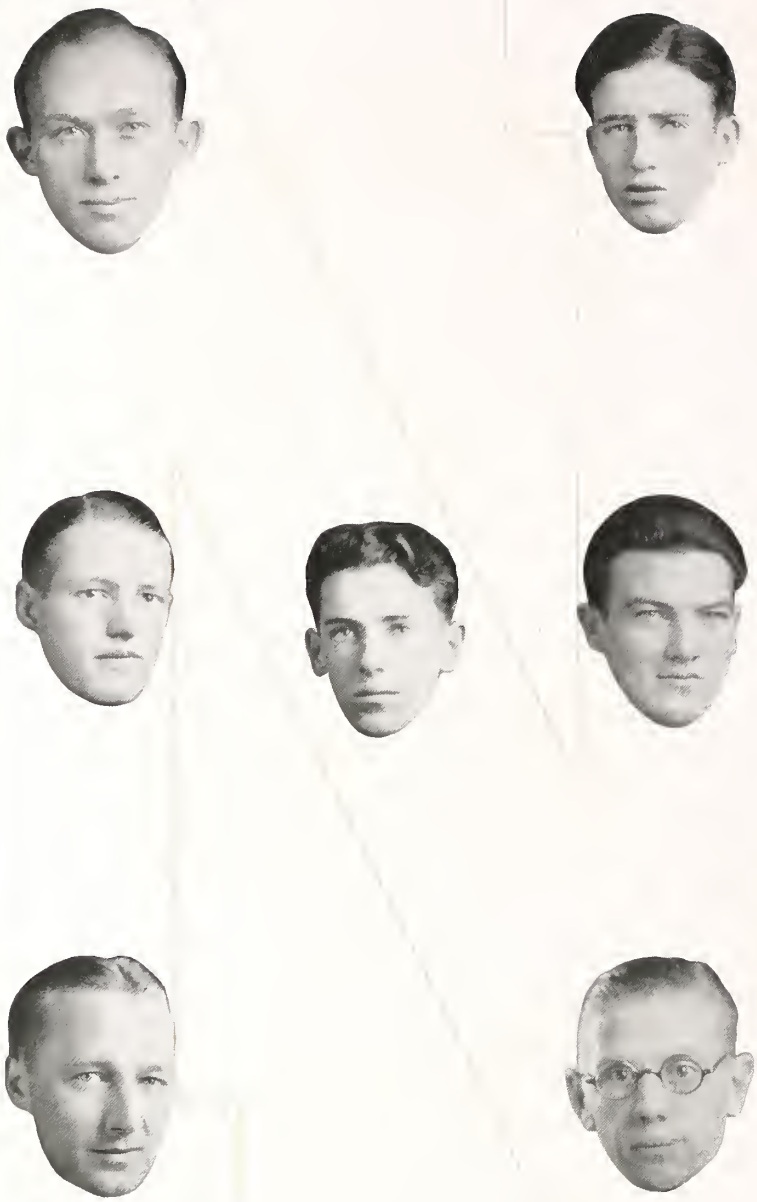

The value of the opposition furnished by the Frosh team to the Varsity in practice is plenty, and too much praise cannot be given Coach Scranton and his proteges for their successful season.

SEASON'S HIGH LIGHTS

A FAST, POWERFUL WOLF PACK, having successfully faced a schedule which included games with some of the outstanding teams in national basketball circles, finished the 1928 season with an excellent record, although a chance seemingly within the grasp of the Pack to retain the championship of the Far Western Conference was snatched away by St. Ignatius with a heart-breaking victory of two points.

Particularly difficult were two obstacles in the path of the 1928 Varsity. The first of these, the flashy Olympic Club aggregation from San Francisco, came to Reno in mid-season form to meet an untried Wolf Pack. The Winged O cagers managed to defeat the Wolves, once by two points and again by three points. Later in the season, the Hillyards from St. Joseph, Missouri, amateur champions of the United States, stopped off in Reno and defeated the Wolf Pack.

The Olympic Series

On Friday, January 13, the Gym was packed with enthusiastic basketball fans anxious to get a glimpse of the 1928 Wolf quintet in the season's first game. They were not disappointed, and the closing minutes of the contest was nearing with the score board showing a 33 to 33 deadlock. A one-handed shot by Gene Minor, Club ace, gave his team victory after one of the most thrilling exhibitions of basketball ever seen on a Nevada court. Morrison and Watson stood out for Nevada, while Minor was the scintillating performer for the Club.

On Saturday the Wolves went to fighting from the first, and were only four points behind at half time. Team work, a stronger defense than on the previous night, and accurate basket shooting were marking the play of the Pack. The Club lead was cut down near the end of the game when "Tip" Whitehead sank a pretty basket to bring the score 34 to 35, but the hopes of the Nevada supporters waned when Holmes scored a pretty field goal to put the game on ice 37 to 34 in favor of the Club. Morrison lead the Nevada scorers with a total of 10 points.

Cal. Aggie and Waseda Series

Defeated twice in as many starts, the Wolves entered into the Cal Aggie game determined to win, and the Farmers were smothered under the Nevada attack 43 to 25. Lawlor was high man for Nevada with 10 points.

The second Aggie game on January 21 proved to be a rather listless affair, the final score showing the Wolves to be the victors by a 34 to 18 margin.

Waseda University from Japan furnished poor opposition for Nevada on January 26, and a 41 to 18 victory resulted for the Silver and Blue. Morrison was high point man with seven baskets from the field.

The second game was practically a repetition of the first, the final reckoning giving Nevada a 41 to 15 win. For the first time during the season "Doc" Martie started his second team, and the first string saw but little action during the game.

The Hillyard Game

On January 28, the night following the last Waseda contest, the Wolves were outclassed by the champion Hillyards from far away Missouri, 39 to 25. Hooker, husky Hillyard guard, flipped the ball through the hoop four times during the first half, and was the leading factor in the visitors 24 to 12 lead at middle time. For ten minutes following the start of the second half the Hillyards were unable to score, while the Wolves cut the Easterners' lead to five points. Hainer and Morrison were the main cogs in the Nevada offense, while Captain Clover covered himself with glory in his guard position.

The Fresno and Pacific Series

The Wolves ventured away from home for the first time on February 3, journeying to Fresno for a two-game series with the State Teachers College. The first contest was fast, close, and hard fought, Nevada winning 26 to 24 when Gilmartin shot a basket from the fifteen foot line in the last seconds of play.

The following night the tables were turned, and the wolves were forced on the short end of a 26 to 17 score. After trailing the Pack during most of the first half, the Bulldogs launched a scoring attack that gave them a 13 to 12 advantage at half time, and they continued to find the ring with greater frequency during the remainder of the contest.

JIM BAILEY
Forward

On the following week-end Nevada met the College of Pacific Tigers at Stockton, and from the opening whistle on were not headed, the final score standing Nevada 37, Pacific 29.

On Saturday the tables were again reversed, and the Wolves went down to defeat 31 to 23. Both contests were more closely fought than the scores indicate, and Jake Lawlor was high point man for the Wolves on both nights.

The St. Mary's Series

Nevada's next bid for basketball glory was on February 11, when the St. Mary's quintet fell before the Wolf attack, 29 to 19. The Pack's air-tight defense, coupled with marked ability to cage free throws, gave them the contest. The Gaels were continually forced to shoot from the center of the floor, and never once could have been considered dangerous.

SEASON'S HIGH LIGHTS

In a rough, free-shooting contest the following night, the Saints were unable to take revenge, and went down to a second defeat, 40 to 36. Captain Tazer of the Gaels scored 21 of his team's 36 points. Morrison with 12 points was high scorer for Nevada.

The St. Ignatius Series

The situation that faced the Wolf Pack on February 24 was a critical one. A two-game series with St. Ignatius was to determine the championship of the Far Western Conference. In order to win the title, it was necessary for Nevada to win both games.

Apparently outclassed in the earlier stages of the first contest, the Wolves staged a fierce rally that tied the score with three minutes to play. Following time-out, Hale, Saint center, sank a one-handed shot to make the count 22 to 20, and Gilmartin came through for Nevada with a long one immediately afterward, to even up the score board. With a minute to play, Maloney sank one for the Saints, and the Pack was desperate. Watson tried a long shot, it hit the ring, rolled in and then out—Morrison's hurried toss at the hoop was short, and the game was over.

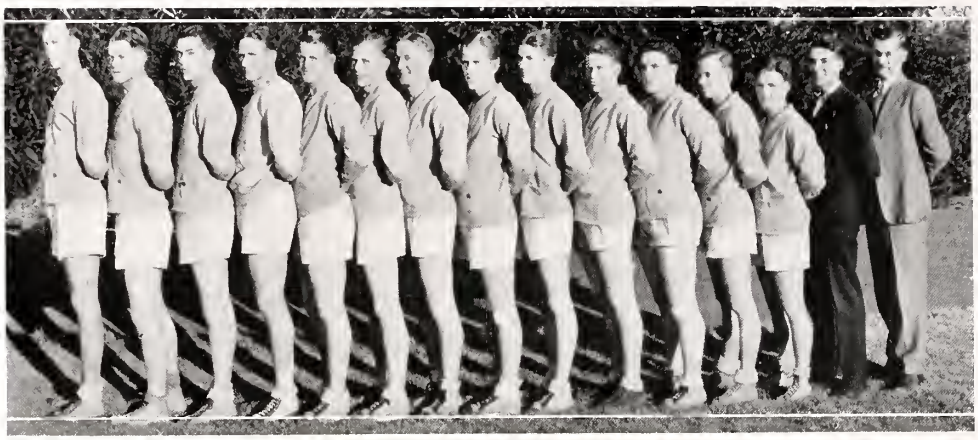

Not unnerved, the Pack came back the following evening, and took the Saints into camp in a similar contest by the score of 20 to 19, but a game too late to claim championship honors. Morrison started activities with a field goal immediately after the opening whistle, and the Pack was never headed. Captain Les Clover, playing his last game for Nevada, stood out as the star of the contest. Thus closed the 1927 season.

FROSH BASKETBALL

CUBS develop into wolves, experience will result from practice and performance, and Nevada basketball fame will go on forever, is the text of this short review of the '31 basketball team. Under the watchful eye of Chet Scranton '24, and newly appointed assistant physical director and coach, the basket-shooting youth of the Freshman class tangled with many rivals of similar ability. Most of these frays or contests were played as preliminaries to Varsity contests, and to the fans who arrived at the Gym early, this band of Nevada cubs showed that they only needed practice and experience under the Nevada system in order to make them Varsity possibilities. To gain this needed experience the Frosh squad engaged in sixteen contests during the season. Playing in this array of games the first year men showed that they possessed winning ability by trouncing nine of their opponents.

VARSITY TENNIS

THE 1927 Varsity Tennis Team—Harold Bailey, Doug Busey, Tony Blum, Ed Ducker, Louis Lombardi, Hoyt Martin, Joe Nenzel, Bickford Shields, and George Wright, a squad of veterans—captured every singles tournament in the state for the season and defeated Modesto Junior College. Although strong in the singles, Nevada was weak in the doubles, and won but one doubles tournament during the year. The season opened with the Modesto meet, the results of which were:

Mott (M) defeated Lombardi (N) 6-2, 6-2.
Nenzel (N) defeated Philbrook (M) 12-10, 6-3.
Martin (N) defeated Bertram (M) 13-11, 6-4.
Ducker (N) defeated Smith (M) 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.
Busey (N) defeated Swanson (M) 6-0, 6-1.
Mott, Philbrook (M) defeated Lombardi, Martin (N) 6-1, 5-7, 6-4.
Smith, Swanson (M) defeated Wright, Shields (N) 6-5, 3-6, 7-5.

The singles victories won the match for Nevada. All were close contests with the exception of Captain Busey's; his opponent won but one game.

During the spring semester a Nevada Tennis League tournament was held, with representatives of various state clubs entered. Busey of Nevada finished first in the league with 12 victories and no defeats.

Later Busey won the state singles title from a list of players among whom

BUSEY LOMBARDI MARTIN DUCKER

VARSITY TENNIS

Wallace Hampton, California's sixth ranking junior, was numbered.

In the Reno City tourney, Busey and Ducker won for Nevada her only doubles victory of the season. Ducker also scored for Nevada by winning the American Legion trophy at Carson City.

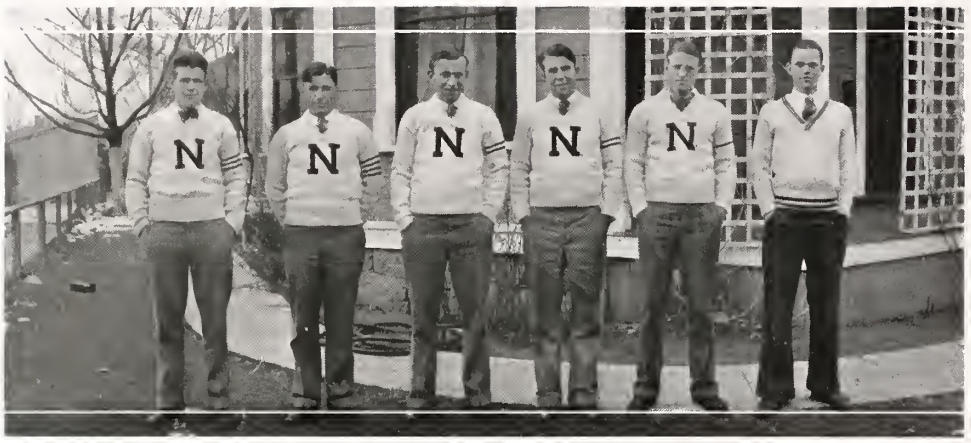

The Western Nevada Tournament, held in Carson City early in the fall semester, resulted in a tie between the Carson club and the Reno club. As in 1926, the only victory for the University team was the match in which Captain Busey defeated Radey, of the Reno club, in straight sets, winning the singles title. Loganell Beemer and Tony Blum, the Nevada mixed doubles team, were defeated in the mixed doubles finals by Thatcher and Radey of the Reno Tennis Club. Representing the Varsity in the women's singles, Loganell Beemer lost to M. Rochon of the Carson club. In the men's doubles, Busey and Ducker failed to show well, being defeated in a semi-final match by Clyde and Spradling of Carson.

The Nevada State Tennis rankings revealed several varsity men listed. Captain Busey, headed the list, Shields ranked fifth, Bailey sixth, and Martin ninth. In the doubles rankings, Bailey and Shields were sixth, followed by Busey and Ducker in seventh place.

With six Varsity men as a nucleus, the 1928 tennis season should be the best in years.

INTERFRATERNITY REVIEW

FEW THINGS steal the show from Varsity athletics, but in their season, the interfraternity struggles for championship honors in four sports receive more than a little share of attention. The triple elimination baseball tournament started off the spring semester, but was overshadowed for a single afternoon soon after beginning by the annual struggle between the ten teams for track honors. The meet was scheduled for the Saturday after Mackay Day, but due to cold weather was postponed to an afternoon in the following week. The well-balanced A.T.O. aggregation proved to be too much for the other teams, and walked off with the meet for the fifth consecutive time, piling up 54 points to the Sigma Nu's 34, who took second. Times were slow because of a cold wind, but a large crowd was on hand to back the teams.

Over one hundred players assume rolls on the ten fraternity baseball teams, and in as hard fought season as ever witnessed on the Hill, the Sigma Nu nine emerged victorious for the third time straight running. They were hard pressed by the S.A.E.s, who took second honors, with the Kappa Lambdas and Delta Sigs following in order.

As a special feature on Home Coming Day the first interfraternity cross-country race was staged, the course lying between Sparks and Mackay Field, finishing with one lap around the track. To win the race an organization had to place three men across the line first, with the result over forty runners started. The Kappa Lambdas won, with Lohse, Morrison, and Webb finishing before three men on any other team, but the pace was set by Clover, Sigma Nu, and Harold Bailey, Delta Sig, who finished first and second after a gruelling struggle in the last quarter mile.

The last interfraternity sport, basketball, occupied the Campus spotlight for over a week, and was punctuated with many upsets of the favorites, being won by he Sigma Nus, who nosed out the Phi Sigs in an extra game struggle. Instead of triple elimination, each team played every other team, and the one with the highest percentage was acclaimed the winner. Both the Sigma Nus and the Phi Sigs lost a game, and the tie was played off before a packed Gym.

THE Women's Athletic Association is the official governing body of all co-ed sports, and represents in organized form women's athletics at Nevada. It arranges the sport program, and sponsors all interclass competition. The girls teams entered in the annual high school basketball tournament are taken care of by W.A.A., and the referees for the numerous contests are members of the organization. The refreshment concessions for the various sport crowds which assemble throughout the year are also handled by the members.

CO-ED SPORTS

Hockey

With a variation in the regular sport program, hockey rather than soccer, opened the fall season this year under the management of Sheila Parker '29. Close games at the end of the season proved the Sophomores champions.

Soccer

Soccer, managed by Lucille Sanford '29, followed immediately after hockey, and with a large turnout, great enuthusiasm and keen competition, very interesting class matches were held, resulting in victory for the Sophomores.

Tennis

Under the enthusiastic management of Isabel Loring '28, greater interest than ever before was aroused in tennis—a sport in which the Sophomores again showed their ability and claimed the final honors. A tennis club was formed after the close of the season which will continue the sport in the spring.

Volley Ball

Volley Ball followed soccer as the third group sport. Beginning early in December with Juanita Lowe '28 in charge, the sport continued until the last of January, when the final games declared the Freshmen champions.

CO-ED SPORTS

Basketball

Basketball started January 30 with Eillen Baldwin '29 and Precious Nash '30 in charge. A large representation from each class forebodes keen competition when the finals are played during the last part of March.

Archery

As a young, but growing sport, archery has found much favor on this Campus. With the aid of a preliminary instruction season in the fall for the Freshmen, it is expected that the spring season under Mary Donohue '29 will be a marked success.

Baseball

Baseball, though the last sport of the season, is far from the least, and under the management of Florence Mitchell '29 it will start with a bang in the latter part of March.

Hikes

Edna Ericson '29 and Idel Anderson '30 as managers of hikes, have offered some novel attractions this year, one of the most unique events being an overnight hike up Mount Rose.

Fencing

Fencing has found a beginning this year through the efforts of a few enthusiasts and will doubtless develop into a more popular sport later.

Dancing

Having been found desirable in past years, dancing was again included this year in the list of activities for which W.A.A. points may be earned.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM

UNUSUAL success has marked the progress of Women's Rifle this year, in view of the fact that over three-fourths of the matches engaged in were won by Nevada; by the fact that more than sixty women tried out for places on the team; and by the fact that the Nevada Rifle Club is now an affiliated college member of the National Riflemen's Association of America, with all the prestige and privileges of that Nation-wide organization. The charter has been drawn up for Nevada's seventy members, entitling these rifle enthusiasts to participate in individual and club events of the Association, as well as provide better facilities for rifle activities.

Officers of the Nevada Club who were instrumental in completing the affiliation were Sheila Parker '29, President; Idel Anderson '30, Vice-President; Frances Fuller '31, Secretary; Florence Mitchell '30, Treasurer, and Eva Adams '28, Executive Secretary of the club and W.A.A. Rifle Manager.

The roster of university teams who have engaged in matches with the Nevada team includes Cornell, Syracuse University, Stanford, Universities of California, Washington, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, South Dakota and Michigan.

Most of the matches were substantially won by the Nevada team, for which record most of the credit goes to Sergeant Barber, coach of rifle activities.

Circle N's, Varsity award for participation in intercollegiate rifle matches, were awarded on Mackay Day to Mae Bernasconi '28, Anita Becaas '28, Idel Anderson '30, Isabel Loring '28, Maryemma Taylor '29, Ethel Maraska '31, Elizabeth Shaber '29, Frances Fuller '31, Geraldine Green '30, and Eva Adams '28.

FAME

Something has been done; so let it be known,
But not by epitaphs and laurel wreaths;
Things far warmer than chisled cuts in stone,
And gayer things than leaves will better please.

Ignite the purple shroud! Slit it with flame
Until the streaks of orange turn to red!
Then, illuminated with glory, fame
Will be witnessed and be accredited.

THE ASSOCIATED ENGINEERS of the University of Nevada, comprising all of the engineering groups on the Campus, has for its purpose the bringing together of all the men registered in engineering with the idea of creating a stronger union between the students and their professors.

In addition to the functions associated with the organization in the past, this year Engineers' Day was combined with the annual Home Coming Day; the Associated Engineers thus taking an important step toward cooperating with the other organizations on the Campus in order that the welfare of the University might be strengthened.

The program of the group for the year consists of many beneficial meetings and is climaxed by a banquet attended by both students and practicing engineers, which promotes a spirit of fellowship bewteen the students and the men in the field of engineering.

PEAKS

The vibrant years have ended; night has spilled
Its blue blood on the final, transient day
Of many days. Now dreams that were fulfilled
Again are only dreams, and best that way.

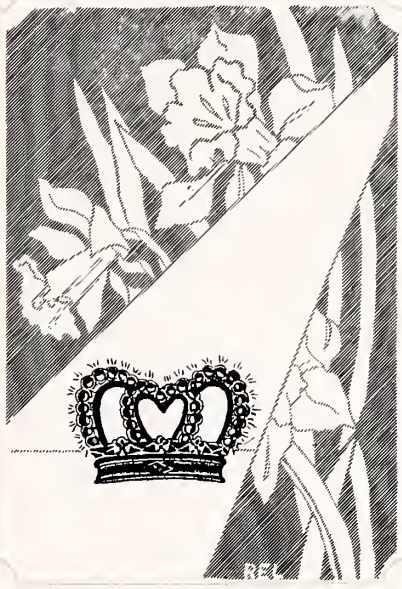

Climb high the peaks! Let memories unbind
The eyes which, opened once, will never close.
Look back! Look down! — and tremulously find
New poetry which once was only prose!

Mr. Robert W. Adamson, Editor
The 1928 Artemisia,
University of Nevada,
Reno, Nevada.

Dear Mr. Adamson:

The selection of the "Artemisia Queens" was unquestionably one of the most difficult tasks of the kind I ever have faced. The percentage of attractive young ladies among those whose photographs you submitted to me was unusually high, and only your foresight in sending two or more portraits of each made it possible for me to eliminate some of the contenders.

After careful consideration, I have chosen the young ladies whose photographs bore the following numbers: 1, 5, 6, 9, 12 and 13.

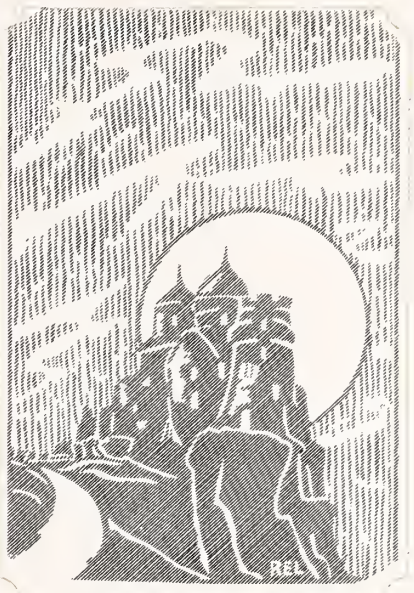

Your confidence in my judgment is sincerely appreciated, and I wish the 1928 "Artemisia" every success.

Very truly yours,

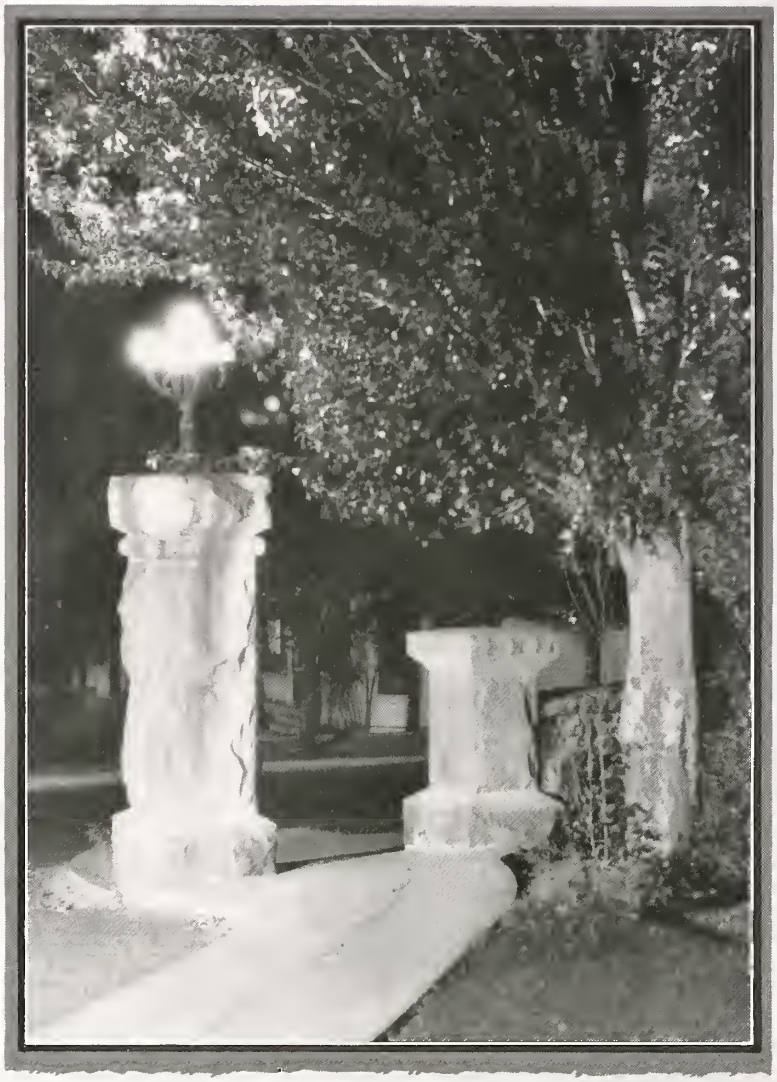

Cecil B. deMille

BAND ENTERTAINING
THE MULTITUDES AT HOMECOMING

To the Readers of "Wolf Feathers"

THERE will be no scandal or questionable material of any kind in this section of the 1928 Artemisia. To all those who are just looking for something shocking, our only advice is to go pay a call on some sorority house roundabout.

So far from sullying these fair sheets with scandal, we have endeavored to make them as pure as the Christian Endeavor Weekly. We have tried to uphold a note of constructive criticism throughout. We have refrained from "razzing"—as our young grandson so quaintly puts it—anybody or any organization on things that are not their fault. For this reason, we will not chide the A.T.O.s on either their house or their over-supply of Aggie members, nor the S.A.E.s on their twenty-three Freshmen. We understand that in this world we must take all that we can get, so we don't hold it against them.

This being our purpose, we trust—nay we know—that our gentle little quips will be accepted in the spirit in which they are offered—one of gentle railery, tinged with sadness and a dash of sex-appeal.

If it should so happen that one of our constructive criticisms is unfounded, do not bring it to our attention too harshly, but call us up some night when we've gone to the cinema and explain it to us gently, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a prompt reply.

But before you do that, perhaps it might be a good idea to ponder a moment and decide if it's really worth the trouble to take anything we say so seriously as to act upon it—because there's another Artemisia coming next year, and we can always use more humor copy.

(Signed) Wolf Feathers Editor.

"SWEETUMS"

Most beautiful and most child-like INFANT DOLL

FREE!

You'll fall in love with this beautiful doll. Her name is "Sweetums" and she looks just like a real little baby and has a truly human infant cry when you tip her slightly forward. Just the size of a little baby, too—18 inches high—with a soft, baby-like body that you'll love to cuddle!

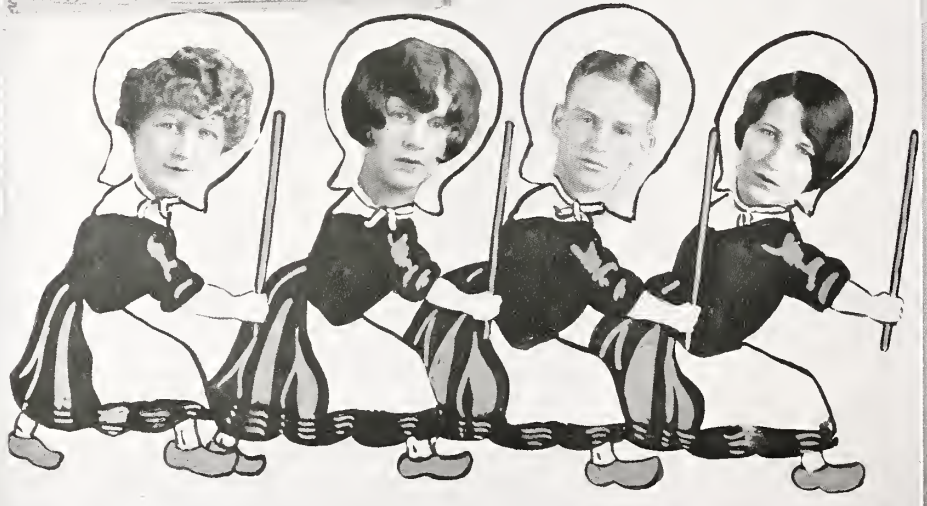

"Sweetums" has a very child-like expression, dainty pink cheeks, moving eyes that go to sleep, full jointed arms with dainty dimpled chubby hands that reach out to you as if to say "run and take Sweetums!" She is really adorable and will sit alone, too!

"Sweetums" wears a very pretty dress trimmed in beautiful lace and ribbon, lace trimmed underwear, white stockings and white shoes with pom pom matching the costume. This doll is one of the finest made and has the famous imported Kestner Bisque Head.

You can have "Sweetums" and it won't cost you any money either. You can earn her for just a little easy work and it will be lots of fun doing it.

Confidential Guide

We herewith offer our profoundest obsequies to the Dramatic Department of Life, The Harvard Lampoon, the faculty of the University of Nevada and anybody else that may feel they have a grievance.

MORE OR LESS SERIOUS

Agronomy 4—An unsophisticated show designed for hick consumption.

Chemistry 5-6—Dark doings in a laboratory. Extremely mysterious.

Economics 2—For the young intellectuals. Highly depressing to anyone human.

Electrical Engineering—anywhere above 50—Apt to be quite shocking.

English 1-2—Practice in taking short themes. Not much fun but gosh-darned useful as you continue your college career.

English 44-45—Katie Riegelhuth and Bertie Hill in a dramatic expose of early English literature.

Home Economics 31-32—Fun in a kitchen; or, How to Keep a Man Happy.

Home Economics 76—("Child Care") Hotsy-Totsy!

Hygiene 2—Heavy sex talks; with the ever-popular Mack and Frandsen.

Latin 1-2—Another show for those who are proud of their tortoise-shell specs.

Military 1-2-3-4 etc.—Early morning workouts. More or less serious and highly depressing.

Philosophy 1—The most popular show on the Campus.

Physics 1-100—Not what its name implies.

COMEDY AND THINGS LIKE THAT

Business Administration 56—How to make money playing the suckers. Hence, a very important show.

Civil Engineering—any number you like—Your chance to build bridges.

Education 76 ("Practice Teaching")—Your chance to make a fool of yourself in front of the high school brats. Highly amusing to them.

English 11-12—Expressing Edwin.

English 25-26—How to make oneself a nuisance around a newspaper office. Highly amusing.

Geology 8—Rocks and wise-cracks, with Claudie Jones and his well-known S. A.

History 1-2—A big show, with Jenny Wier, Ray Leach, and Rastus Hansen. Don't miss it—not if you want to graduate.

History 81-82—Some of the least discreditable sections of Chinese and Japanese history. Highly amusing for those who enjoy reading the novels of Mrs. Louise Jordan Miln.

Psychology 10—What every teacher should know, and an easy couple of credits for the rest of us.

Spanish 51-52—Sophisticated comedy, mixed in with some real snooty sarcasm. Frankie and Johnnie officiate and naturally considerable it is called into play.

Zoology 2—Your chance to be a butcher. Highly amusing.

EYE AND EAR ENTERTAINMENT

French 3-4—Short and snappy Parisian show, with Bennie Chappelle. Highly amusing, especially since you don't have to know French.

Latin 41-42—Stimulating nudes in the classical manner. Highly amusing, but not recommended for Freshmen, who are too young to appreciate true beauty.

Mathematics 26—Chick Haseman doing mathematical flip-flops and tail-spins. Highly amusing.

Mathematics 26A—Buck Searcy doing the same flip-flops and tail-spins in slow motion. Highly depressing.

Mechanical Arts 2—Your chance to be a blacksmith. Rather grimy but highly amusing.

Mechanical Engineering 6 ("Descriptive Geometry") A little jim-dandy of a show.

Music 10—Teddy Post showing a mess of women just why Beethoven wrote better music than Berlin.

Music 54B-55B—The Men's Glee Club, with all of the glee strictly of the holy variety.

Nature Study 2—Maggie, of the Macks, leading the young idea out into the great open spaces in order that it may cull flowers. Ridiculously funny.

Philosophy 61-62—Religion brought up-to-date by Rube Thompson. Highly amusing.

Physical Education 3-4—The audience does all the work in this. Highly amusing to Dr. Martie, who occasionally favors with a dramatic monologue.

Physics 7 ("Astronomy")—A good excuse to star-gaze. Be careful not to get a crick in your neck.

Political Science 1-2—Wise-cracks on the subjects of goats and slot-machines. With Si Feemster.

Poultry Husbandry 1-2 etc.—One-horse show for the big butter and egg men. Highly amusing, if you like chickens.

Zoology 8 ("Evolution")—Artistic lantern-slides enlivening an otherwise dull show.

WE NOMINATE FOR THE HALL OF FAME

MR. EDWIN DUERR—

Because he is the author of this year's best-seller, an autobiography entitled "How It Feels to be the World's Smartest Man"; because he is in a position to tell people they can take his course when he says for them to or they can get out and stay out; because he is the idol of the Freshmen women, and no doubt about it; because his hair, though rapidly retreating, keeps up the fight and curls just the same; and because he doesn't believe in coddling the A. S. U. N.

DEAN MARGARET E. MACK—

Because she is head man in the Student Affairs Committee, the Panhellenic Council, the Interfraternity Council, Manzanita Hall Association, Pi Beta Phi sorority, etc.; because she is a great booster for the hosiery companies; because she has the uncanny faculty of knowing what you are doing when you're not supposed to be doing it; because she can get along with less sleep than any other living person; because she was such an ardent partisan of the Artemisia Beauty Contest; because she never gets her dates mixed; and because she has it.

MR. JOSEPH D. LAYMAN—

Because he missed his calling—he should have been a traffic cop, but still made a success—and what a success in the library business; because, though married, he manages to act like a confirmed bachelor; because he is president of the Snoopers Society; because he has nerve enough to tell Dean Leach he just won't shave, and what is Dean Leach going to do about it?; because he understands women, especially college women; because he is so fond of music; and because he and Professor Feemster are such charming little playfellows.

WE NOMINATE FOR THE HALL OF FAME

Mr. Vernon Cantlon—

Because he has such an adorable lisp that the women will sit quietly and listen to him appoint committees for hours without getting restless; because although he's president of the A. S. U. N. and drives a Packard, he can't get away with parking it on the Campus during school hours any better than we can with our old Ford; because he's the youngest and most innocent looking president we've had for a long time; because he is, in at least a few cases, loved for himself alone; because he can appoint committees by the hour and never repeat himself.

Mr. Pete Gignoux (pronounced jig-nox)—

Because he sets the pace for the Publications Board and, what's more, is able to maintain it; because we had to get his picture in the Artemisia some place; because his feminine interests are centered on one beloved object; because he can grow a mustache and get away with it without ever being the type for that sort of thing; because, though an engineer, he is also a gentleman; because nobody knows who "Ralph" Gignoux is; and because, being an artistic soul, he likes lots of music and is willing to pay for it—if you don't believe us, ask the Gamma Phis.

Mr. Fred Anderson—

Because as editor of the Sagebrush he has made such a hotsy publicity manager for Campus Players; because he was so successful in blandly ignoring all the juciest bits of news which have been running around hither and yon all during the last semester; because he has proved that an editor doesn't necessarily have to bother to stay in the office and edit his paper if he has something else he wants to do; because he carried a discolored eye for a few days and was never even suspicioned; and because he's okay.

"We'll Tell The Cock-eyed World"

HOLLYWOULD, CALIFORNIA

February 30, 1928.

WOLF-FEATHERS EDITOR,
U. of N. Artemisia.

Dear Sir or Madam:

I feel highly honored that you have chosen me to judge your Men's Prize Coyote Contest, and I have endeavored to fulfill my duties as well as possible.

The percentage of beautiful young men was very high in the 459 pictures you sent me—as unusually high as is usual in beauty contests of this sort. I'm almost sure, however, that I did better than Cecil in his judging job. He always was too particular.

Following is a list of the eight winners, with an explanation of their particular type of beauty, and the flowers which they symbolize:

No. 000. The vivacious, sprightly type of beauty. His flower should be the pansy. One can easily see what a favorite he is with the co-eds on your campus just by the merry twinkle in his eye.

No. 777. The domestic, home-loving type—it doesn't matter whose home. I choose the violet as his flower, for that's what he is—just a modest little violet, blooming unseen among the hedges.

No. 1000. The classic type par excellence. Phydias would have loved to chisel his features. I feel myself that perhaps they need it. His flower, of course, is the pure, snowy lily.

No. 606. The exotic type—full of the swirling incense of the mysterious orient. The delicate orchid is his flower.

No. 348. The haughty, regal type. Queens—particularly campus queens—bow down in the dust before his eyes. His flower is the tiger-lily, dark orange with brown polkadots.

No. 123. The dramatic type. Can't you just see him getting ready to recite Hamlet's soliloquy, or even the immortal ode, "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck"? His flower is the American Beauty rose.

No. 66. The perfect Latin lover. His burning, passionate eyes express all the dark love-madness of the south. And what more appropriate for his flower than a garlic bud?

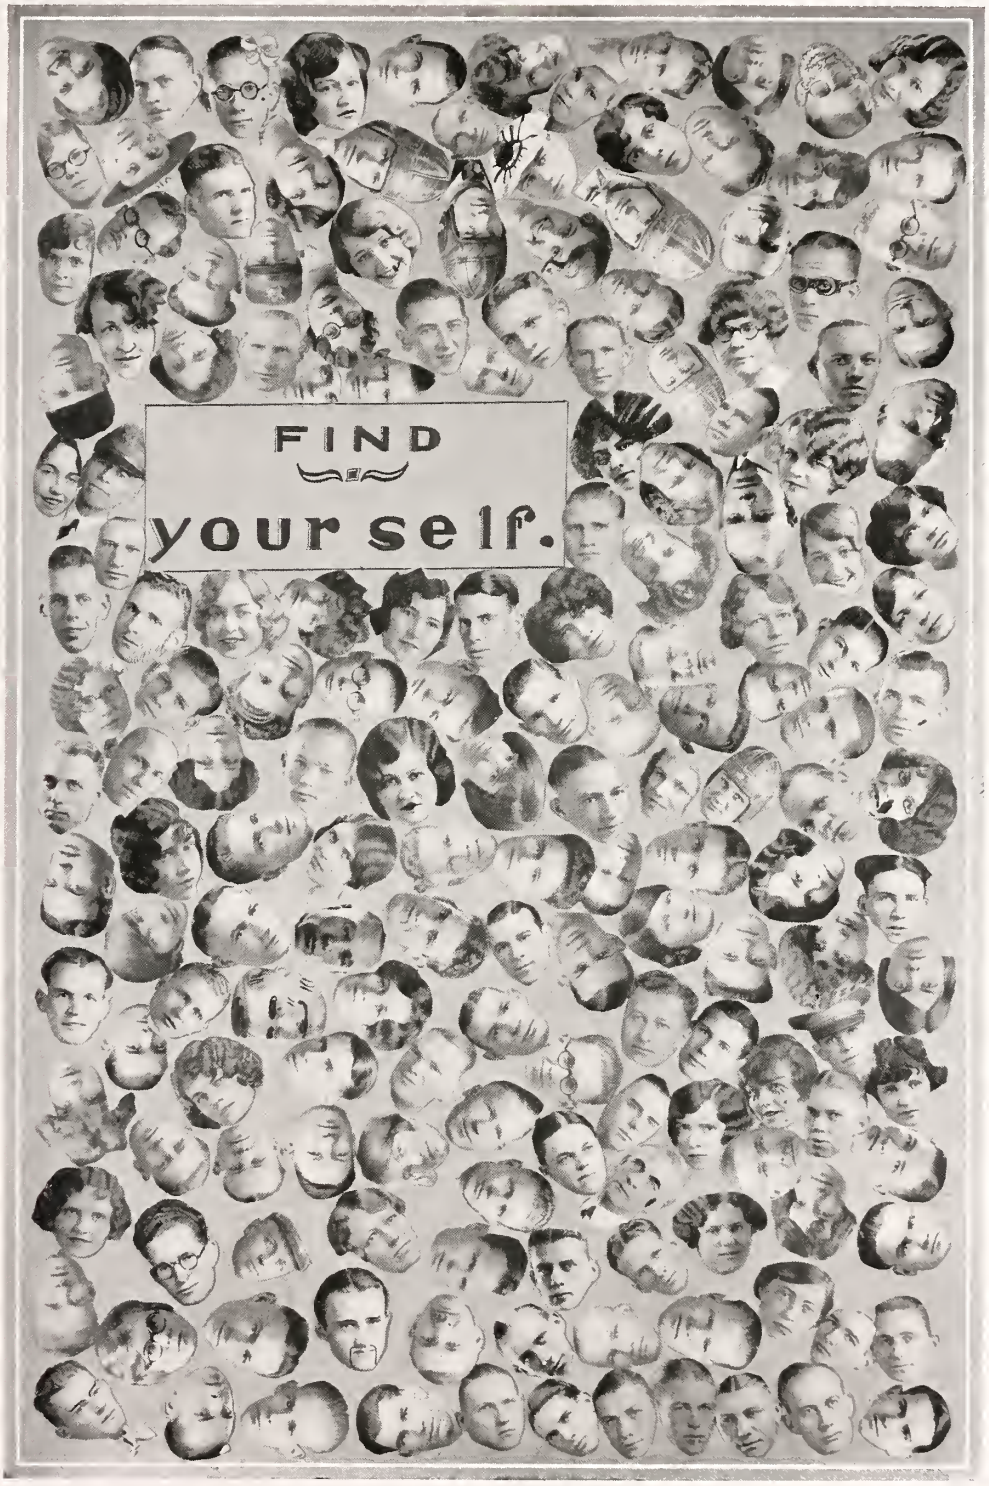

No. 13. The soulful, dreamy-eyed type; brooding on eternity or where he can get enough money to take Anita out tonight. His flower—the gardenia, of course.

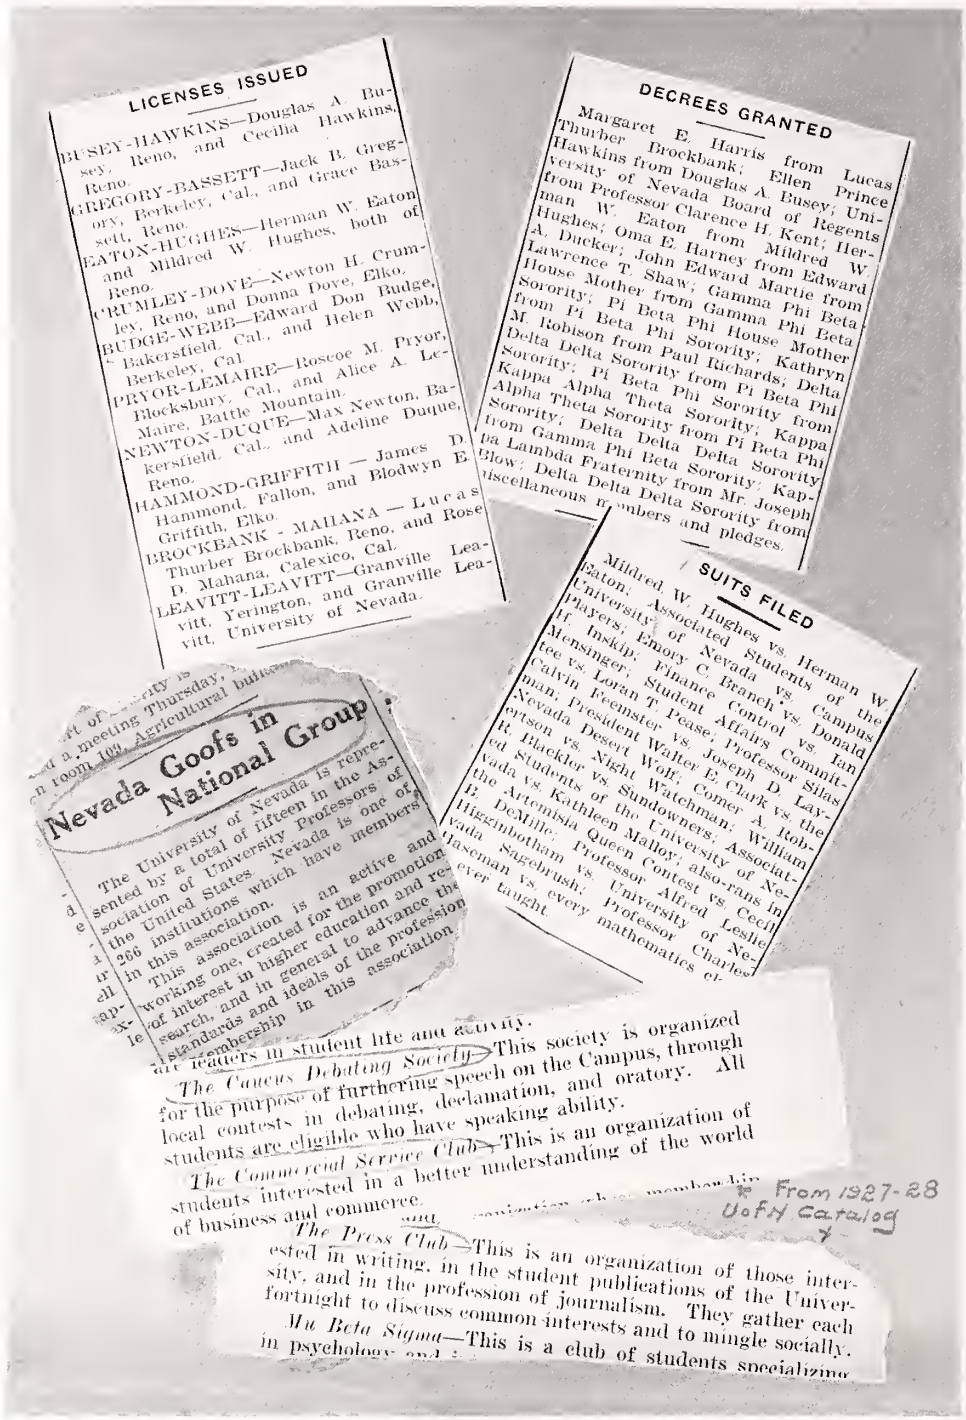

Trusting that my selections will meet with your approval,

Very sincerely,

(Signed) BEN TURPIN.

WHACK THE PACK

IT is with great pleasure that we honor the 1928 Artemisia Pack. Its members worked hard—the whole Campus knows that—and they deserve all they get. One thing that struck us as particularly commendable was that nobody on the Pack ever broke training. Everybody was constantly on the alert for some way of improving herself, and most of them found it. In fact, some of them found it several times.

There were no substitutes on the Pack, because it is quite an exclusive organization and bitterly resents any encroachment on what it laughingly calls its "rights".

MEMBERS

"Phi Sig" Anderson (End). She keeps her man forever, once she gets him.

"Bulls-eye" Walker (End). Has the most nerve of any member of the Pack, and will tackle anything.

"Stringbean" Priest (Tackle). When she sees the opposing team coming her way she just tells 'em she's a Pi Phi, and they laugh themselves to death.

"Happy" Anderson (Tackle). The triple threat member of the Pack.

Bessie Davie (Guard). Practically unexcelled on defensive work. Just try it and see.

"Venus" Roy (Guard). Better form than any member of the team.

"Rabbit" Sanford (Center). Never slugs, never holds, or falls down on the job.

"Tall" Couch (Quarter). Still a bit young and inexperienced.

"Grand" Duque (Half). The fastest little worker on the Pack.

"Shorty" Hughes (Half). This little dickens is always best in the clinches.

"Bull" Carter (Full). A rootin', tootin', hell-raisin' back.

East Plaza Street Reno, Nevada

LIBRARY TEN COMMANDMENTS

1. Thou shalt honor thy librarian and his assistants, for they are the salt of the earth, and they can verily throw thee outside if thou pleasest them not.
2. Thou shalt not whistle lilting ditties in the halls, nor in the reading rooms, neither shalt thou sing.
3. Thou shalt not smoke the vile cigarette, nor yet the manly pipe, nor the pure Havana cigar, in the seminar rooms, for to do so is verily to make the atmosphere of these rooms insupportable.
4. Thou shalt not tarry to argue, but shalt go out the door thou art directed to go out at.
5. Thou shalt not carry little frogs, mice, nor June bugs into the library for frivolous purposes.
6. Thou shalt not call thy librarian a robber, nor yet a thief, nor even a profiteer, but shalt cheerfully pay the fine required at thy hands.
7. Thou shalt not attempt to do thy French lesson in conjunction with another in the library, but shalt take thy books outside if thou wishest to confer.
8. Thou shalt not use the library solely as a place to make an appointment with thy adored one.
9. Thou shalt not commit murder upon the surfaces of the tables with thy pen-knife, for to do so would cause the great Father Layman mightily to rage and tear his beard.
10. Thou shalt not use the name of the library in vain; for if thou tellest Miss Mack thou art bound for the library thou must surely go there lest she take a journey there and discover thy iniquity.

CRANE BEAUTY IN THE OPEN; CRANE QUALITY IN ALL HIDDEN FITTINGS

Fixtures of shining white; the glint of nickel; walls in clear, cool color; this is the bathroom of today, symbol of American love of cleanliness. In every home it is a preferred investment in convenience, sanitary comfort, finer living.

The considerable role played by Crane in spreading the gospel of better bathrooms and its insistence on the highest quality in all Crane plumbing and heating materials has led some to believe that Crane products cost more. Not so! Count the full cost of any complete installation and Crane is rarely higher in price.

Every preference, every purse can be satisfied in the wide range of Crane fixtures, valves, and fittings; obtainable through any responsible plumbing contractor. Write for New Ideas in Bathrooms, illustrated with blue prints of floor plans, and wall elevations in color; full of practical decorating suggestions.

PEOPLE WE DISLIKE

The bird who tells us he doesn't know the answer to a question in an examination and goes on writing furiously.

The goon who wants to know if it's cold enough for us.

The lassie who sits in front of us in class and is letting her hair grow out again.

The cheerful mutt who booms out at us "What d'ya say?" when he really doesn't care and wouldn't listen if we tried to tell him.

The guy who just beats us to the last booth at the Grand.

Diary of a modern Pepys—Up bright and early and to my 7:45 with Si Feemster and dozed. How does he keep up his meaningless chatter? Goats, bees, and slot machines. Why doesn't he talk of Poly Sci?

Quite charming co-ed tripping merrily down the steps of Stewart Hall seems to gather not a few admiring glances from masculine eyes. Wonder why so many of our fairest try to outdo each other in obtaining that ugly but interesting "great divide"—human nature?

One gust of wind after another. One hasty glance after another. But then the good Lord is just. Too much dust.

M. A. Dromiack A. L. Dromiack

Berkeley, California,
May 1, 1928.

Dear Editor:

I have arrived safely on foreign territory and only hope that you, too, will be able to escape. I have been very fortunate in not running across any Nevada students here and hope no one from the good old U. S. A. recognizes me.

I was indeed fortunate in making my escape before you distributed your Artemisia, and in reviewing my work, I find that perhaps my little quips may have been rather pointed—but who gives a damn.

The knowledge gained through my work has enabled me to set up in business and I have already gathered several fees from people who do not care to let the papers get what I know.

Fearfully yours,
(Signed) Wolf Feathers Editor.

ONLY this supremely mechanical age could produce a mechanism so exquisitely refined, so superbly efficient as the LA SALLE. The lay public sees the chief beauty of LA SALLE in its luxurious bodies by Fisher and Fisher-Fleetwood. But to engineers, LA SALLE reveals a deeper beauty in every finely cut gear; in measurements even finer than a human hair; in the inherent superiority of its 90-degree, V-type 8-cylinder Cadillac-built engine. Yet their enthusiasm is chiefly inspired by the same delightful ease and smooth power which place LA SALLE first in the hearts of all who but even once feel the witchery of its performance.

THE CO-ED

She's an angel in truth, a demon in fiction; the co-ed is the greatest of all contradiction.! She's afraid of a worm, she'll scream at a mouse, but she'll tackle a Phi Sig as big as a house. She'll take him for better, she'll take him for worse, she'll split his head open and then be his nurse. She's faithful, deceitful, keen-sighted and blind; she's crafty, she's simple, she's cruel, she's kind; she'll lift a man up, she'll cast a man down, she'll crown him a king, she'll make him her clown. You fancy she's this, but you'll find that she's that, for she'll play like a kitten and bite like a cat. The co-ed she's a wonder, a puzzler, a doubter, but you all must admit that you can't live without her!--Modified from The Log.

Advertisers

THE part of the 1928 Artemisia which has just been read contains the advertisements of the true supporters of the University. They contract for advertising space in the annual and while they receive value for the money expended, do so only when the students willingly patronize the firms advertising. The publishing of a school annual is largely dependent on the advertisers and it is only right that those supporters of the University should be entitled to the business of the students. Read the ads and then patronize those firms who have shown their willingness to help the University.

APPRECIATION

THOSE in charge of the 1928 Artemisia take this opportunity to express a sincere appreciation and indebtedness to the following:

To Mr. E. C. Warburton, color reproduction expert and representative of the Commercial Art & Engraving Company of San Francisco, whose suggestions and assistance in planning and securing material for the book have been invaluable, and we will remember his association with the volume as one of its best "breaks."

To Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lunsford, of Lunsford's Reno Printing Company, for sincere co-operation extended us during the planning and printing.

To Mr. L. B. Haste, of San Francisco, for art work that we believe to be the feature of the book.

To the Annual Department of the Commercial Art & Engraving Company for their timely suggestions and liberal attention paid the details connected with the preparation of engraving copy.

To the printers whose skill is evident in the typography and presswork of the book: Mr. William Shipaugh, Mr. Carter Parrish, and Mr. M. M. Droubay.

To the California Art Company for the privilege of using the small four-color subjects in the opening section.

To the Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco and The Standard Oil Company of California for permission to make electrotypes from four-color subjects in their possession.

To the David J. Molloy Company for a splendid service rendered in the creation of the cover.

To the Riverside and Brockman Studios for photographic co-operation.

We were fortunate to secure the services of two former Nevada artists—Miss Ethel Lunsford and Mr. Dorlon Peckham.

To everyone else outside the University who assisted us in arriving at our destination, we offer a sincere "thank you."

An annual is said to be as good as its staff. Over eighty students reported during the year to try out for positions on the Staff, and to the approximate third of this number who were finally selected on the basis of work done, we are more than indebted.

There is an inherent lack of recognition seemingly connected with annual staff work, and those who stuck with us through the final stages—the editorial and managerial associates and two editorial assistants—have been partners in the work and deserving of credit if any is due.

—The Manager and the Editor.
